U.N. Assembly Okays Ike's Atomic Plan

Unanimity Of Endorsement Exceptional

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—By a rare unanimous vote, the U. N. General Assembly Saturday endorsed President Eisenhower's atomic-peace program and expressed hope it would be put into operation without delay.

For the second time in the ninth General Assembly, the United States and the Soviet Union voted together—but only after Russia had lost a fight to link the program with the Security Council and the big power veto.

Only the five Soviet bloc countries favored this link; the West firmly opposed it.

Eelco N. Van Kieffens, Assembly president, hailed the unanimous vote and said the entire world will rejoice that the Assembly has paved the way for achievements on a question that claims the interest in all countries "of citizens who hold the general welfare at heart."

One month ago the United States and Russia joined the 58 other U. N. members in a vote giving the U. N. Disarmament Commission a fresh start on work on a project for regulation and limitation of conventional armaments and prohibition of atomic weapons with adequate controls.

One year ago on Dec. 8, President Eisenhower electrified the Assembly with a dramatic plan for sharing atomic wealth for peace. By its action Saturday the Assembly pushed the plan ahead.

The resolution gave final U. N. approval, noted that negotiations are in progress for the establishment of an international atomic energy agency "to facilitate the use by the entire world of atomic energy for peaceful purposes" and expressed the hope the agency "will be established without delay."

The resolution Saturday suggested that once the agency is established it negotiate an appropriate form of agreement with the U. N.

On this point, the Assembly voted 43-5 against a Soviet proposal for the U. N. to recommend that the agency "be established as an agency responsible to the General Assembly and, in cases provided for by the charter of the United Nations, to the Security Council."

James J. Wadsworth, United States, said this proposal would "shackle the agency" with the veto. He made it clear the United States will not accept a veto on operations of the program.

Dr. David D. Henry Accepts Position As U.I. President

NEW YORK (AP)—A noted American educator, who has played a pioneer role in educational television, will become president of the University of Illinois next Sept. 1.

An offer of the post was accepted Saturday by Dr. David D. Henry, 49-year-old vice chancellor of New York University.

A group of officials connected with the Illinois institution had come here Friday in an effort to persuade him to take the presidency, and stood by him as he announced acceptance Saturday.

Dr. Henry read to newsmen a statement saying in part: "The unanimity of the Board of Trustees and the support of its advisory committees in inviting me to the presidency augur well for the effectiveness of the new administration."

"The University of Illinois is one of America's greatest, and the opportunities for its future are unexcelled."

Dr. Henry will succeed Lloyd Morey, 68-year-old administrator who has held the presidency temporarily since July 1953. At that time trustees ousted Dr. George D. Stoddard for lack of confidence in him.

Dr. Henry will be the 12th president at Illinois, which now has nearly 25,000 students, mostly on the main campus at Champaign-Urbana.

Morey has been receiving a salary of $25,000 annually, but Dr. Henry will receive $30,000. His present salary at NYU was not disclosed.

President Commends Watkins For Splendid Job On Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) received President Eisenhower's accolade Saturday for a "splendid job" as chairman of the special committee which recommended censure of Sen. McCarthy.

McCarthy, whose conduct was condemned on two counts at an extraordinary Senate session that ended Thursday night, could not be reached for comment.

The condemnation resolution, adopted by a vote of 67-22, was based in part on his calling the special bipartisan censure committee the "unwitting handmaiden" of the Communist party and his denunciation of Watkins as "cowardly" and "stupid."

Dale Racketeering Case Expected To Go To Jury Monday

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—The trial of Evan R. Dale, boss of 38,000 AFL common laborers in Southern Illinois, and a number of union officials on labor racketeering charges probably will go to a Federal District Court jury Monday.

The defense rested Saturday, and Federal Judge Fred L. Wham recessed the trial until 10 a. m. Monday, when final arguments will begin.

Dale and James Bateman, business agent of an AFL pipefitters union at Murphysboro, are accused of trying to extort $1,030,000 from the builders of a 197-million-dollar electric power generating plant at Jopka, Ill. Dale is charged with extorting $7,500 from a subcontractor on the big job.

The sudden end to the testimony Saturday came as a surprise. Dale's attorney had indicated there would be a long list of defense witnesses.

Expect Sheppard To Take Stand In His Defense

CLEVELAND (AP)—A defense timetable calls for Dr. Samuel Sheppard to take the stand as his own life or death witness this week. He is on trial for the July 4 murder of his wife, Marilyn.

Defense attorney William J. Corrigan was not committing himself Saturday to an exact lineup of witnesses as he mapped his counter-offensive to the State's first-degree murder case against the boy-faced, 30-year-old osteopath.

However, he said he expects Dr. Sam to take the witness stand in his own defense before the eighth week of Cleveland's celebrated criminal trial is over.

Five and perhaps six other members of the Sheppard family of osteopaths also are listed as defense witnesses. One of them, Dr. Stephen Sheppard, 34, launched his brother's defense Thursday morning. He was still under cross-examination by the state when court recessed Friday afternoon for the weekend. He returns to the stand Monday.

"We have many more questions for him to answer," said assistant prosecutor Thomas Parrino.

After Dr. Steve, his attractive wife, Betty, is due to testify. Other members of the family listed as witnesses are an elder brother, Dr. Richard N. Sheppard, 37, and his wife, Dorothy; and the father, Dr. Richard A. Sheppard. The defendant's 63-year-old mother is ailing. But Corrigan said he will put her on if her health permits.

6 TO DIE FOR NASSER ASSASSINATION PLOT

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Six leaders of the Moslem Brotherhood's underground secret order were sentenced Saturday to be hanged for plotting assassination of Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and the overthrow of the military government of Egypt.

The Brotherhood itself was ordered destroyed. The life of a high Brotherhood official who supposedly was aloof from the underground was spared by Nasser's regime by a commutation late Saturday night.

The drastic actions to wipe out the leadership and suppress the fanatical organization altogether were ordered by a special military court after trials growing out of an attempt to kill Nasser in Alexandria Oct. 26.

Rule Out Perjury Charges In Army, McCarthy Row

WASHINGTON (AP)—Justice Department lawyers were reported today to have decided that no perjury prosecutions will be undertaken as a result of the clashing testimony in the Army-McCarthy hearings of last spring.

The case, which played at center stage in public and televised settings from late April until mid-June, is being laid aside on a finding that it would be impractical, if not impossible, to get an indictment from a grand jury on the maze of conflicting statements.

Officially, the Justice Department says the whole matter is still under study. But officials say a lengthy study of the hearing transcript has led to the conclusion that if false statements were made, the evidence to support a prosecution in court just isn't available.

The outcome of the Department's scrutiny of the testimony was kept pretty closely under wraps while the Senate prepared for and finally held its recent "censure" session which resulted two days ago in Senate condemnation of certain conduct of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

McCarthy's Elbow Giving Trouble. Skips Dinner Date

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) failed to keep a Cincinnati speaking engagement Saturday night, and his wife explained that his elbow infection "has not cleared up."

Mrs. McCarthy, reached at the McCarthy home by telephone, said the senator was there and that reports in Cincinnati that he was gravely ill were "a little exaggerated."

"I'm surprised they put out the story they did," she said. John Held, chairman of a committee handling the dinner at which McCarthy was slated to speak, had said Mrs. Mary Driscoll, McCarthy's secretary, had told him on the phone that McCarthy was "gravely ill."

However, Mrs. Driscoll herself failed to bear this out in a telephone call she sent to the dinner. It said simply that the elbow "was not given sufficient time to respond to treatment."

For a while Saturday night there was some mystery as to where McCarthy was. But Mrs. McCarthy said he was at home.

Throughout the evening reporters had knocked on the McCarthy door, rang the bell and telephoned without getting a response.

Mrs. McCarthy said the senator's personal physician came to see him Saturday and had the first chance in several days to examine the elbow, injured when a vigorous handshake pushed it against a glass table top.

"The doctor put his foot down and said, 'I'm going to take care of you or else,'" she related.

She added that, "The infection has not cleared up and he shouldn't have left the hospital when he did." She said McCarthy is going to get some further treatment of the elbow at home.

The Washington Star, in its Sunday edition, said the report that McCarthy was gravely ill was unfounded.

It said: "A source close to the senator said his private physician visited him yesterday (Friday) afternoon and 'absolutely forbade' his making the Cincinnati trip, possibly in fear of further injury to the elbow."

Quinn, a former ensign and co-pilot, read an Associated Press news story of the woman's plight and came to the AP office in Chicago to fill in some of the details and tell some of the tragedy which resulted.

Quinn, 33, said the patrol bomber was crash-landed on the China Sea Jan. 26, 1945, at Tam Quam, a point near Quan Ngai, the same as related by Mrs. Pagnon.

But her version didn't turn out as happily as she thought. Only one member of the crew was able to escape in a U. S. submarine three days later.

Quinn is married and father of three children. He lives at 122 No. Caroline Ave., Elmhurst, Ill., and is a salesman with the elevator division of Westinghouse Electric Co.

Only Quinn and radio man Charles Hamilton of Boston, Mass., survive the 11-man crew Mrs. Pagnon helped by hiding them in the hills and bringing them food.

Pope Now Shows Signs Of Speedy Improvement

PRAY FOR POPE—Choir boys John Powers, 13, left, and Richard Bagdonas, 11, pray with sexton Jerry Coffey at Most Holy Redeemer church in San Francisco for recovery of Pope Pius XII. According to the Vatican, the 78-year-old Pontiff survived a night in which grave fears were expressed for his life after suffering a heart collapse.

Stevenson Assigns Democratic Party Role Of 'Loyal Opposition'

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson Saturday night cast the Democratic party in the role of the "loyal opposition" to the Eisenhower administration and called for "elimination of domestic politics" from foreign affairs.

In a speech at a $100-a-plate dinner at the Loyola University fieldhouse, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee said he hoped President Eisenhower could conclude a nonaggression pact with Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) and find some means of peaceful co-existence with a large segment of his party.

"I am sure that the great majority of Democrats and of independent voters agree in wanting this administration to succeed as it never has before in its task of ordering the security and property of our own people and of expanding the hope for freedom and justice for all peoples," Stevenson said. "It is in this spirit that I speak tonight. It is in this spirit that the Democrats will act in the 84th Congress."

Stevenson said Democrats, who won control of both houses of Congress in last month's election, "do not propose to usurp the powers and responsibilities of the Republican executive."

"As the loyal opposition we should not propose either to find the answers for executive problems or to impede the executive in the proper carrying out of his responsibilities," he said.

"We wish to see the government do its job better; not to impede its operations."

In thus defining the Democrats' role, the former presidential nominee took the Eisenhower administration and the Republicans to task sharply for what he said was a bitter division within GOP ranks on foreign policy and a tendency among Republicans to make international decisions "less to produce results abroad than to produce applause at home."

He twisted Eisenhower's own differences in viewpoint between the President and Knowland, the Senate leader, Knowland proposed a blockade of Red China and breaking off diplomatic relations with Russia. Eisenhower has made it clear he thinks these would be unwise moves at this time.

Stevenson said Eisenhower and the Republicans face the "problem of how to get unity where one of the parties—GOP—continues bitterly divided within itself."

Calling for a "restoration of responsibility to our discussion of public affairs," Stevenson declared what he said was the "big lie" technique used against Democratic candidates in this year's campaign.

Declaring that national unity is "a grim necessity for our survival," he continued: "The last campaign, it must be our sense of unity. Cruel, unjust and foolish things were said, and motives were slandered, evil motives imputed, parties traduced and defamed. And by the most exalted of our adversaries, too."

He was a retired linotype operator and came here in 1944 from New Jersey.

He fought in the Spanish-American war, the Boxer Rebellion in China, the Philippine Insurrection, and World War I. When World War II broke he volunteered at the age of 80, but, although commended by the secretary of war and the governor of New Jersey, he had to be content with replacing a drafted linotype operator on the Bound Brook, N.J., Chronicle.

Rally Will Continue If Food Can Be Given

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A new course of treatment brought fresh improvement to ailing Pope Pius XII today. Tonight he was resting more easily than since his collapse.

Doctors said the rally, begun after 48 hours of desperate illness, would continue if food can be given the 78-year-old Pontiff.

The first alkaline washing of the stomach—part of the prescribed course of treatment—took place in the afternoon.

An official medical bulletin tonight said:

"The bettering of the condition of the Holy Father continues. The treatment announced in the earlier medical bulletin has begun with good results. This afternoon the Pope rested better than for some time."

Another heartening word came from the Vatican. The Pope feels strong enough so that from a bedside microphone he will give his blessings to thousands scheduled to assemble in St. Peter's Square tomorrow for mass prayers to his recovery.

One of five medical specialists called last night to the Pope's bedside said he had a recurrence of vomiting with traces of blood this afternoon. The specialist said, however, that this was not preoccupying.

He added that the Pontiff must have absolute rest for at least a month if the new treatment begun today is to be successful. During this period, the Pope must remain in his Vatican apartment, and possibly in bed, he said.

The Italian radio said tonight the Pope's digestive difficulties may have been aggravated by the swallowing of some chronic acid about a year ago, when he was undergoing dental cure. This could not be confirmed.

The doctors initiated a new treatment of blood plasma, vitamins and other medicines designed to build up the Pope's strength.

Two of five physicians attending the 78-year-old pontiff said in a medical report: "It is imperative to reestablish the strength of His Holiness. His strength, without any doubt, will rapidly recover if a gradual feeding is carried out and the therapy of vitamins and liver extract, already started, is continued."

MAN JUMPS OFF BRIDGE AT ALTON

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—A man stopped his car on the Clark Bridge at Alton late Saturday and leaped some 80 feet into the Mississippi River despite efforts by another man to stop him.

Witnesses said the man struck the water on his back, floated for a distance and then disappeared. A search for the body was under way.

William Salsone of St. Louis, driving behind the man's car, stopped his machine when the other man got out of his car and reported the man leaped over the bridge railing just before he grabbed for him.

U.S. Demands U.N. Act Promptly To Free Americans

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States demanded prompt and decisive action by the United Nations Saturday to obtain the release of 11 American fliers and other U. N. prisoners still held by Red China.

An official memorandum charged the Chinese Communist action in holding the American fliers was "a clear-cut violation of the (Korean) armistice agreement."

U. N. executives scheduled a Steering Committee meeting for Monday afternoon to consider the demands.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U. S. delegate, presented the request for quick action to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and Assembly President Dr. Eelco N. Van Kieffens, of the Netherlands.

The Steering Committee will take up Lodge's plea for a debate to be held quickly by the 60-nation Assembly itself instead of routing it first through the main Political Committee.

Zingabad Grotto Elects C. F. Smith Monarch For 1955

C. Frank Smith, one of the leading members of Zingabad Grotto, was elected Monarch of that group Wednesday night to serve for the year 1955. To the highest office of the local group of over 270 members, he succeeds Robert A. DuBois as Monarch.

The second highest office that of Chief Justice, was filled by the election of John R. Chapman to that station. Russell Armstrong was elected to the office of Master of Ceremonies and Warren Hoagland was chosen to fill the station of Venerable Prophet. Rollyn B. Trotter and Edward A. Jackson were re-elected Treasurer and Secretary, respectively.

The Monarch appointed the remaining officers as follows: Marshal, Vern Mueller; Captain of the Guard, Walter E. DeShara; Sentinel, Omer Melton; Color Bearer, Edward Morrison.

The newly elected and appointed officers were installed in an impressive ceremony by Past Monarch John S. May with H. Edward Smith as Installing Marshal.

Robert A. DuBois, retiring Monarch, was unanimously elected to membership on the local Grotto Board of Trustees, for a period of three years.

Besides the election and installation of officers, numerous other items of business were cared for at the annual meeting of Zingabad Grotto. Plans were formulated for the presentation of the annual Children's Christmas Party for the children of members and their guests which will be held on December 15. Co-chairmen appointed for this event are Vern Mueller and Bob Ferris, with Russell Armstrong as assistant. Plans for this annually large event will be announced soon.

A report on the Swedish Smorgasbord served to over 280 members and their wives on Tuesday, November 30, was given. This party, which featured over 45 different typical Swedish dishes, was well attended and much enjoyed. Lloyd Bieber, at the organ, and Barbara Munk, Mignon DuBois, Janet Fernandes, Carol Omundson, Mary Ann Rikert and Mary Ellen Covey, accompanied by Becky Crouse at the piano, presented the program during the evening. Co-chairmen were Irving Olson and Bill Jarrett, and the DeMolay Mother's Circle served as caterers.

A report of the charity committee showed the ordering of a wheel chair for use by a cerebral palsied child at Lincoln School, which was approved at a prior meeting. This chair will be made to measurement for the child's use and will arrive in the near future. A pair of special shoes for use of another cerebral palsied child at the school has been ordered. Cerebral palsy contributions, which is the Grotto's national project, are being handled by the charity committee composed of Wilfrid Rice, K. V. Beerup and Byron Holkenrue, who were reappointed by the newly elected Monarch.

Modern Audience Still Goes For Play Actin'

Exeter Hall at Illinois College was the spot chosen by the Hilltop Players on six parts by Tom Olson, the play ers to enact a very painstaking and well-thoroughly enjoyable theatrical ex- periment Thursday and Friday eve- nings. The veteran acting group, directed by Octavia K. Frees, pre- sented an 1839 melodrama, "Nick of the Woods," or "Telle, the Reneg- ade's Daughter," with an incredi- ble amount of authenticity right down to the last kick of the can- can dancers.

The Hilltoppers chose the antique piece to coincide with the 125th an- niversary of their school, and every- thing was made to duplicate the theater of a century ago from the snarl of arch-villain Richard Brax- tramped stage with its improbable curtain and painted flat scenery, to the cheering and jeering audience presided over by singing waiters complete with bouncer. All of this, one and the same, was the faithful folks in those days must have had Gary Genzel, Harriet Lotensat, one whole of a time at the old Bowery.

To witness this Hilltopper per- formance was quite an experience. Plots did not progress in those days; they evolved; language did not ex- press; it insisted; props were not placed in position; they were flung into the arms of the waiting actor; symbols were not people, but could believe so absurd a story?

The Hilltop Players were not handicapped in the least by these principles. They accepted them with all the nobility of a Roland For- rester, and enjoyed themselves at which you place a ham.

New Reports Confirm Safety Of Fluoridation

Additional decisive evidence of the safety of fluoridation of community water supplies was provided by two recently reported U. S. Public Health Service studies.

In the first study, death rates in 32 fluoride cities and 32 neighboring non-fluoride cities were checked and found to be virtually the same. The combined death rate from heart disease, cancer, intracranial lesions, nephritis and cirrhosis of the liver was found to be 1010 per 100,000 persons in fluoride cities and 1003 in non-fluoride cities.

Cancer Rate Lower
The cancer rate, often alluded to by fluoride opponents, was actually lower in fluoride cities (135) than in non-fluoride cities (139).

Death rates from other causes were (fluoride cities listed first): heart disease, 334 and 357; intracranial lesions, 111 and 104; nephritis, 21.9 and 25.7; cirrhosis of the liver, 6.6 and 8.2. None of the differences can be considered significant, the report noted.

Safe For All Ages
The second study, conducted in Bartlett, Texas, over a ten-year period, demonstrated the safety of fluoridated water for both children and adults. Included in the study were residents aged 15 to 68, who, in 1943 at the start of the project, had been drinking water containing

Public Library News Notes

"The Christmas Idea Book," by Dorothy Biddle, is just what people want at this season to suggest novel decorations, easy-to-make tree ornaments, sprays, wreaths, table, and outdoor arrangements.

Whole families can engage in preparing decorations for indoors and out as suggested and pictured in "Christmas Lighting and Decorating," by Sares. There are, also, chapters on gift wrapping and making greeting cards.

The library has many craft books to enable the readers to make their own gifts. "How To Build Children's Toys and Furniture," by Cherner, gives more than two hundred ideas for needs from the block-building age to the teens. It includes excellent diagrams and directions as well as a chart showing the correct chair and table sizes for the different ages of children.

For further program aid, the library has recently added five paperback books for young people. "Christmas Comedies," by Curtis, is a collection of one-act plays for teen-agers. "Christmas Plays For One and All," by the same author, contains one-act plays for primary grades through high school. "Good Things For Christmas," by Irish, has recitations, drills, and tableaux suitable for all ages. "High School Christmas Book," by Starr, has plays, skits, and readings. "The Christmas Festival Book" contains plays, pantomimes, and recitations for intermediate and upper grades.

Appropriate poetry can be found in Clark's "Christ in Poetry," an anthology, which has many poems about the nativity.

For inspirational reading, "Let's Keep Christmas," by Peter Marshall, is a sermon which expresses joy that Jesus came to save the world.

How many times have you wondered to yourself, "What must Christmas in Bethlehem be like?" From earliest childhood, Opal Wheeler had the desire to know the answer and in "Stars Over Bethlehem" she describes her experience of Christmas Eve amid Biblical scenes.

"Room At The Inn," by McMeekin, is a touching story of Christmas Eve in Miss Carrie's boardinghouse and about Kenny who appeared from nowhere as symbolical of the Christ child.

These suggested books are recent additions among a large collection of Christmas literature on the display case in the east reading room of the Jacksonville Public Library. Most of them are limited to a 7 day loan period in order that as many people may use them as possible.

MR. AND MRS. BYRON A. YATES
Sharon Blakeman is Bride

Miss Sharon Lynn Blakeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Blakeman of Murrayville, Illinois, and Mr. Byron Almor Yates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Yates of Independence, Missouri, were united in marriage the evening of Friday, November 12.

The marriage was solemnized at the altar of the beautiful and historic Old Stone Church of the Reorganized Latter Day Saints at Independence.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the father of the bride, Elder Earl S. Blakeman.

Mrs. Ruth Hays sang "How Many Times," "I Take Thee Dear" and "Wedding Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Ethyl Price at the piano. The traditional wedding marches were played by Mrs. Bethyl Knoche at the pipe organ.

The tapers at the altar were lighted by the two brothers of the groom who served as ushers, Mr. Vincent Yates and Mr. Curtis Yates.

Mrs. John Marshall was the bridesmaid and she wore a gown of peacock blue with navy blue accessories and rhinestone jewelry. Mrs. Earl S. Blakeman, the mother of the bride, was the matron of honor and wore a gown of smoke blue taffeta with rose accessories and rhinestone jewelry. Both attendants carried beautiful sprays of chrysanthemums entwined with tulle.

The bride, given in marriage to her father, wore a lovely gown which she designed and made of white nylon tulle appliqued with Chantilly lace, worn over a strapless undergown of white bridal satin. The gown featured a tight bodice with standup collar of lace and long tapering sleeves of tulle with sprays of lace. The skirt gathered full at the tiny waist, billowed gracefully over hoops and crinoline petticoats. Her finger tip veil of illusion fell from a Juliet cap of lace and pearls. The bride carried a beautiful cascading spray of bright red carnations entwined with white tulle ruffles.

The groom's attendants were Mr. Donald Johnson who served as best man and Mr. John Marshall who served as groomsman. The men of the wedding party wore navy blue suits with maroon bow ties and white boutonnieres.

The mother of the groom, Mrs. Joseph Yates, wore a gown of turquoise crepe with gold accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The reception was held in the church parlors immediately after the ceremony. The bride and groom cut a five tiered wedding cake beautifully decorated in white with pastel green and yellow accents. The cake featured clusters of spun sugar wedding bells and flowers. The center piece for the table was a low bouquet of white mums and

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

CHICAGO (AP) — Hog prices declined this week, all but choice light weight types selling at new lows for nearly two years. Barrows and gilts dropped 25 to 75 cents while sows were off 75 cents to $1.00.

Average cost for all barrows and gilts on Thursday was $17.65, lowest since December, 1952 except for one day in January, 1953.

Receipts were heavy, Chicago getting 76,000 head compared with 62,000 in the corresponding week a year ago. Wholesale pork prices declined $1.00 to $2.00.

Choice and prime steers advanced as much as $1.00 but other steers closed the week steady to 50 cents lower. Cows and bulls declined, vealers advanced while trends in hogs were mixed.

While steers predominated in the cattle run, as usual, cows were in the largest supply in months. They comprised 15 per cent of salable receipts.

Woolled lambs lost $1.00 while shorn lambs tumbled as much as $1.50 for the week. A sharp increase in supplies was mainly responsible for the downturn. Arrivals at Chicago were the largest since January. Dressed lamb sold to $2.00 higher in the wholesale trade.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week met its hardest test since the start of the post-election boom, and it came through stronger than ever.

For two straight days, prices were hammered down sharply, the first time in more than a month that there had been consecutive setbacks.

Many in Wall Street firmly believed the market was headed in to a major reaction, such a development has long been anticipated.

Selling spent itself, however, and the advance was resumed with more energy than before.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was sent spinning up to another new high of $149.90, best since Sept. 26, 1929, when it stood at $149.40. The all-time high of $157.70, set Sept. 3, 1929, loomed nearer.

The market has been advancing for nearly 15 months without a major setback.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were Allegheny Corp. up 1/4 at 6 1/4; New York Central up 1/4 at 26 1/4; Boeing up 3/4 at 68 1/4; Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton up 1/4 at 10 1/4; and Georgia Pacific Plywood up 3/4 at 27 1/2.

UNOFFICIAL RECEIPTS

CHICAGO (AP) — Unofficial estimated livestock receipts for Monday: hogs 14,000; cattle 19,000; sheep 5,000.

FINED FOR SPEEDING

Donald R. Saunders of Alton was fined $45 and costs in the court of Justice Homer Conover Saturday. He had been arrested for speeding by State Highway Patrolman Charles L. Bailey.

Carl Dobson of Jacksonville was fined $15 and costs in the same court for speeding in South Jacksonville, Marshall Orilla E. Thomas made the complaint.

LIQUIDATION PUSHES GRAINS LOWER, CORN MAKES BEST SHOWING

By WILLIAM FERRIS
CHICAGO (AP) — Grains had to absorb quite a bit of liquidation on the Board of Trade this week. They didn't do it very successfully.

Corn held up best under the selling pressure and the September contract, representing the 1955 crop, even managed a small gain. Among the other cereals, rye was weakest.

Wheat closed 1 1/2-2 1/2 lower, corn 1/2 lower to 1 1/2 higher, oats 1/2 to 1/2 lower, rye 6 to 6 1/2 lower, soybeans 1 to 4 1/4 lower and hard 10 cents lower to 22 cents a hundred pounds higher. Loose lard set a new low for the year at 12 1/4 cents Wednesday.

The liquidation came from those who have been holders of the various grains for quite some time. In wheat it was felt they had held the gain for more than six months, and therefore could sell now and take advantage of the lower capital gains tax applying after six months.

Selling in soybeans came in part from those who were apprehensive that producers might be more willing to let go of cash beans after the turn of the year, when the income will apply to 1955 taxes.

A possibility of a blockade against Red China arose early in the week, which would stop shipments of Manchurian soybeans to Europe. But this possibility was quickly dispelled by Secretary of State Dulles. Soybean crashings during October totaled 21,738,000 bushels against 21,284,000 a year earlier.

There wasn't any heavy liquidation in corn because this grain had not attracted as much speculative buying over the past several months as other cereals.

Jensen Concert Displays Rare Artistic Talent

By ROBERT GLASGOW

An evening of unalloyed musical pleasure was provided by Wilma Hoyle Jensen at her organ recital in the Annie Mercer Chapel Friday evening. We are not surprised at Miss Hoyle's spectacular success. A marked degree of innate musical talent, her own selfless devotion to her art and the excellent training she received in her early years at MacMurray and later at the Eastman School have now endowed her with all the factors which make for extraordinary and completely satisfying listening.

This modest, petite, young artist has the sensitiveness of feeling, the colorful imagination, and the unerring grasp of style, as well as the comprehensive technique essential to a telling conveyance of the various styles of music in her program. Actually this is rare among performers, but it is especially rare among organists, even "concert" organists.

The grand "St. Anne" Fugue was musically compelling from beginning to end. Like all other compositions on her program it was played with full comprehension of its structural design. Out of this comprehension came rightness of tempo, registration and interpretation. If mention is made of particular moments of delight in the evening's program, one could not forget how warmly and spontaneously she let the music sing in the Franck, or her superb articulation of the Dupre Prelude and the tingling, exuberant feeling of delightful abandon in the Vivacious Fugue, the almost frightening burst of fury in the Malingreau work, or her deeply poetic interpretation of the Karg-Elert. Of unusual interest was the closing programmed selection from the organ works of the modern French composer, Olivier Messiaen, entitled "God Among Us" which Miss Hoyle, with dazzling virtuosity, dispatched with stunning rhythmic drive.

The MacMurray Student group, affiliated with the American Guild of Organists, is to be heartily congratulated. The hard work of these students to make this concert a reality, and their plan to bring other concert organists to the great Mercer Chapel organ in seasons to come are commendable to say the least, and is highly appreciated by lovers of good organ music in the Jacksonville area.

Rally Will Continue If Food Can Be Given

They dispelled tears that cancer might be involved in his gastric distress by saying he was not suffering from a tumoral sac of the digestive tubes.

The confidence expressed in the report was echoed by all those who visited the weakened of the world's more than 400 million Roman Catholics during the day. Doctors, cardinals and relatives emerged from the papal apartment with optimistic words.

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, dean of the College of Cardinals, and Nicola Cardinal Canali, first of the day to visit the Pope in his white-walled bedchamber, said afterward they appeared "much better and more cheerful."

Later, the official Vatican spokesman, Dr. Luciano Casmiri, reported that "everything looks better."

The Pope also received his sister, Elisabetta, and three nephews, the Princes Carlo, Giulio and Marcantonio Pacelli. As they left the papal apartment one said he was "extremely encouraged" by the pontiff's appearance.

The statements, combined with the medical report, prompted a wave of optimism that the frail but strong-hearted Pope would recover from his illness—the gravest in his 16-year pontificate.

Reliable Vatican sources said, however, the Pope still must be considered in danger.

He has been confined to his bed, unable to eat, since Sunday. Thursday afternoon he suffered a collapse that brought him near death.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A reported behind-the-scenes dispute within the Eisenhower administration on the best way to strengthen foreign nations against communism spread Sunday to Capitol Hill.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) said he understood some administration officials favored a new Asian aid program with a price tag "running into the billions of dollars." He warned against any program of such magnitude, saying it "would be beyond my comprehension and, I think, beyond the comprehension of Congress."

President Eisenhower's top economic advisers were reported split on how this country can best shore up foreign countries, especially in Asia, against communism.

Reports said Harold Stassen, foreign operations administrator, favored large-scale grants-in-aid programs, while Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey is strongly opposed to more Marshall Plan gifts of any considerable size.

Humphrey was represented as favoring foreign economic assistance, but believes it should be forthcoming chiefly through the resources of the government-owned Export-Import Bank, the 57-nation World Bank, and the proposed 100-million-dollar International Finance Corp. The latter would get its funds from World Bank members, with the United States putting up 35 million dollars.

No decision has yet been made by President Eisenhower. But Mansfield said the administration appears to be laying the ground work to continue Stassen's Foreign Operations Administration "still another year," despite congressional declarations last summer and in 1953 that the agency should be abolished.

Mansfield, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"We spoke out just about as clearly and forcibly as we could last summer when we passed an aid bill stipulating that the FOA was to pass out of existence next July 1. But I see unmistakable signs that the administration is laying plans to continue that agency with perhaps a long-term aid program for Asia."

Mansfield said the nucleus for aid to underdeveloped Asian nations should be the Point-Four technical assistance concept outlined by President Truman in 1949. Mansfield has said he would favor an economic aid program costing the United States 100 to 500 million dollars for the next two years, "with emphasis on the smaller figure."

Mansfield also said European nations like Britain and France should share much of the aid program. In this respect he and Stassen are agreed.

Powerful Notre Dame Rolls To 26-14 Win Over SMU

Single Wing Football Provides All-American Linemen Candidates

By BOB HOOBING
The ASSOCIATED PRESS
Single wing football, which met with considerable success in 1954, has produced some outstanding All-American candidates among linemen. UCLA employed the single wing with nearly flawless execution to go unbeaten and untied, aided by such splendid performers as tackle Jack Ellena, guard Jim Salisbury and end Bob Long.

Bud Brooks, a 200-pound senior, led Arkansas' Cinderella team to an unexpected Southwest Conference championship and Cotton Bowl berth from his guard position. Arkansas plays the old Tennessee single wing under Buden Wyatt, former star for the Volunteers.

Michigan finished in a second place Big Ten tie with its brand of single wing featuring sophomore wingman Ron Kramer and talented tackle Art Walker.

Tackle Ed Fouch of Southern California's Pacific Coast Rose Bowl representatives and guard Bill Meigs of Harvard's Big Three titles also play for single wing adherents.

Two decades ago the single wing was the predominant style of attack in college football. Then came the revival of the old T formation in 1940 which swept the country through the war years. In the late 40s, Michigan, Tennessee and Princeton started a single wing comeback simply by using with devastating effectiveness the offense they had been employing all along.

Men like Ellena, Salisbury, Long, Brooks, Fouch, Meigs and Kramer made possible the strong showing of the single wing this season. National champion Ohio State and Oklahoma joined UCLA in posting unblemished records this year and again it was the key individuals who carried a big share of the burden.

Buckeye tackle Dick Holinski a 240-pounder, was State's big man up front. Center Kurt Burris and end Max Boydston have drawn a flood of praise from those who have seen them in action.

Ron Beale of Navy and Army's Don Hollender are among the other first class wingmen considered as All-American linemen along with Maryland's Bill Walker, Auburn's Jimmy Byrum, Miami's Frank McDonald, Notre Dame's Dan Shannon and California's Jim Hanftan.

One of the toughest jobs facing selectors has been at guard where talent is plentiful. Ralph Crenshaw of West Point is one of the strongest men in the game. Calvin Jones of Iowa and Tom Bettis of Purdue get the nod from the Midwest while Franklin Brooks of Georgia Tech, Kenny Paul of Rice, Frank Minovich of South Carolina, Len Benz of Navy and Gene Lamone of West Virginia come highly recommended.

The South and Midwest furnished most of the tackles. Sid Fournet of Louisiana State, Tex. Boggan of Mississippi, Bob Bartholomew of Wake Forest and George Preas of Virginia Tech are four Dixie standouts. Notre Dame's Frank Varichone Hilinski and Walker caught the fancy of Midwest selectors.

Baylor's James Ray Smith and Boston College's Frank Morze made the headlines in their sectors.

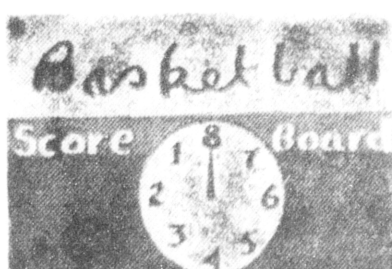

Larry Morris, lone holdover from the 1953 All America, was not considered at his center position because he was injured part of the year. Burris ranked high among the nominees at this position along with Mississippi State's Hal Easterwood, South Carolina's Leon Cunningham, Texas Christian's Hugh Pitts and Wisconsin's Gary Messner.

Notre Dame Cagers Down Wisconsin 72-61 In Opener

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (P)—Notre Dame opened its golden anniversary season Saturday night with a 72-61 victory over Wisconsin in a 31-point performance by the losers' Dick Cable. It was Notre Dame's 17th straight scheduled game victory over two seasons.

Capt. Jack Stephens, one of two starters left over from Notre Dame's 22-3 record team of last year, paced the winners with seven field goals and eight free throws for 22 points.

The Irish attack was matched during the first half almost single-handedly by Cable, who poured in 26 of the Badgers' 32 points for the first two quarters. Wisconsin officials said Cable's first-half rampage was a school record. Score at intermission was 32-32.

In the second half, with Cable hitting only 11 points, the Irish managed to pull away gradually.

Michigan Raps Pittsburgh 101-71

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (P)—Michigan uncovered a fine sophomore guard and an improved starting five to swamp Pittsburgh 101-71 in a non-conference basketball game Saturday night. It was Michigan's season opener.

Michigan continually drew away from the undermanned Pittsburgh squad from the second quarter on. The Wolverines received unexpected help in the last half from sophomore Jim Shearon.

Shearon's performance completely overshadowed the sophomore debuts of Ron Kramer and Tom Maentz, who starred on the football team. He scored 17 points in all, 15 of them coming in the last half.

It was Pittsburgh's second loss of the season. Without the shooting of their captain, forward Ed Pavlick, they would have trailed by even more.

Pavlick's 18 points were high for the Panthers. However, he was still below Michigan's Don Eaddy, a guard, who took scoring honors with 20 points.

Peter Mueller Stops Tiger Jones

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (P)—Peter Mueller, crowd pleasing former German middleweight champion, punched and clinched his way to a split 10-round decision over Ralph (Tiger) Jones in a 10-round fight Saturday night.

Mueller weighed 156 pounds; Jones 161.

Mueller was ahead all the way and had Jones in trouble several times with hard overhead rights to the head.

The German's attack was relentless throughout and Jones never seemed to get started.

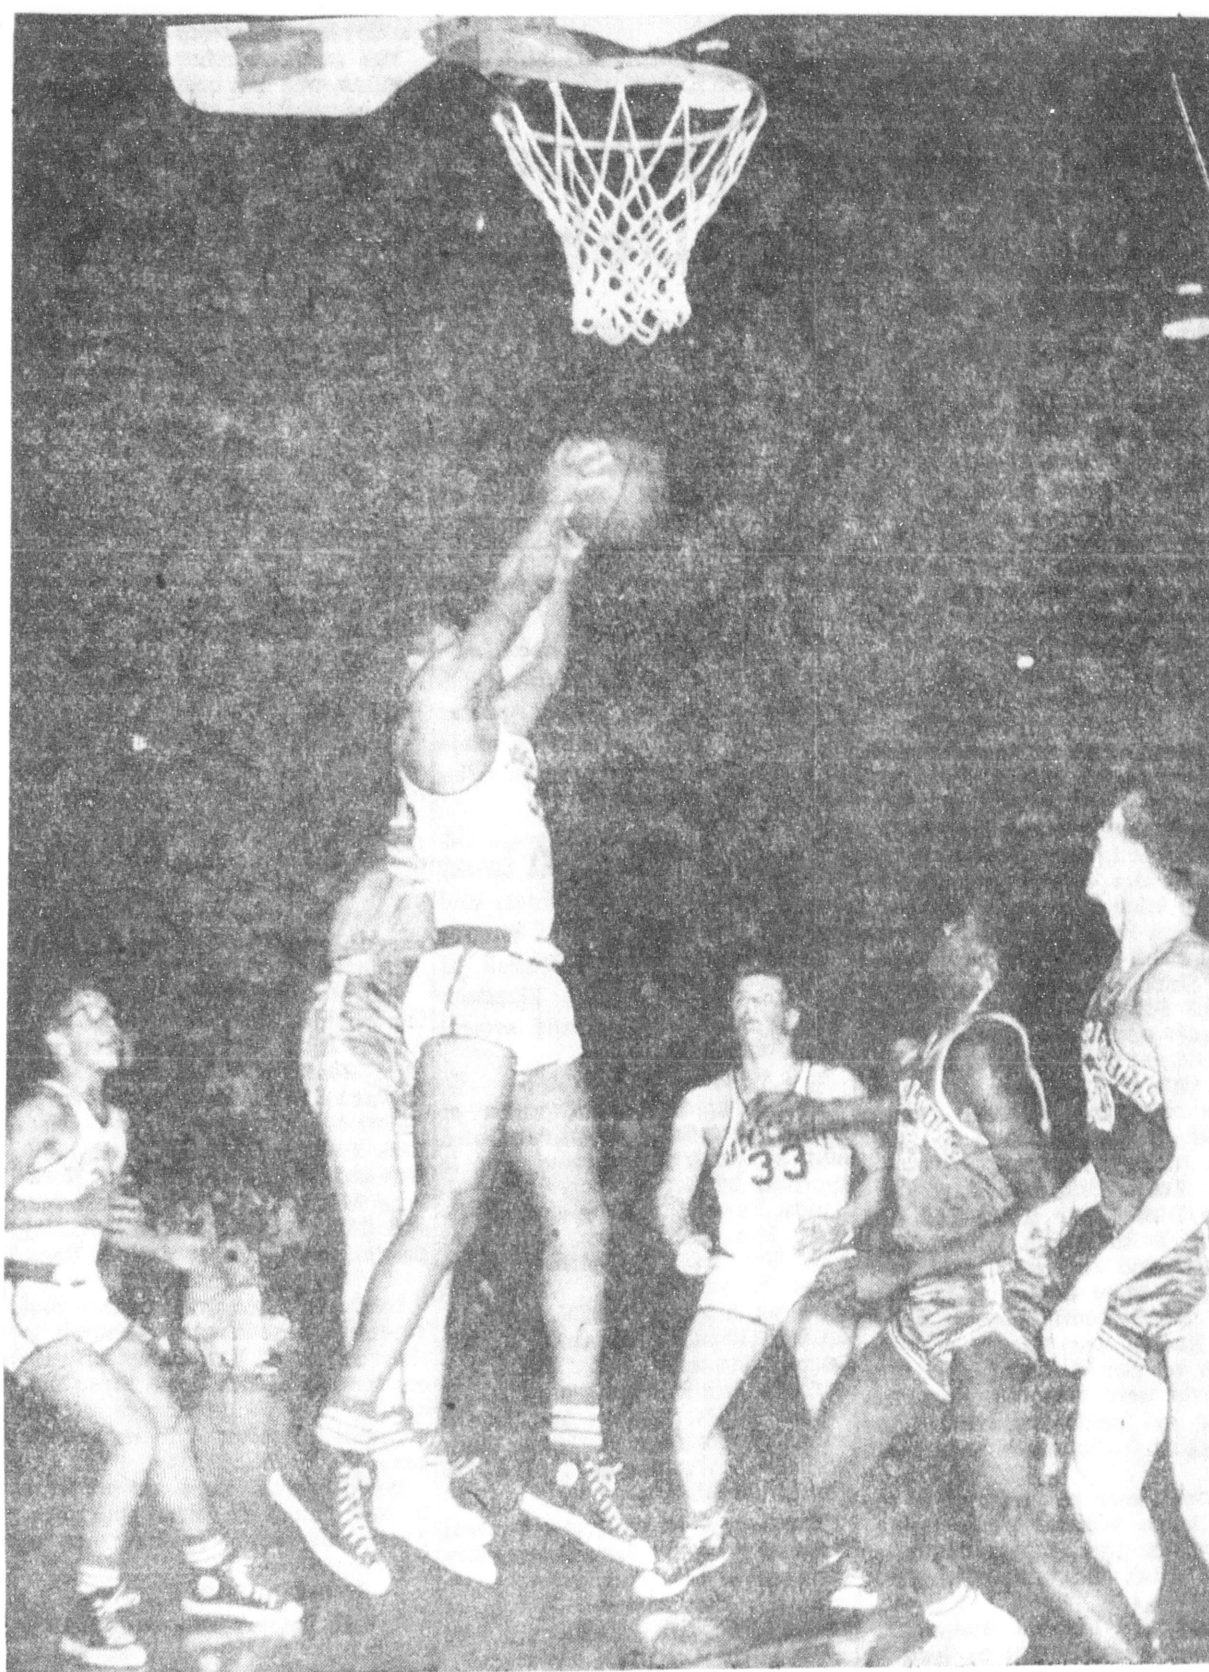

In the ninth round it looked as if it were all over for Jones as Mueller uncorked a savage barrage of rights and lefts.

Mueller, in answer to the roars of approval from the crowd of 1,500, stepped back and took several bows as the helpless Jones sought to get back in the fight.

Jones answered the bell strongly for the tenth, however, and Mueller gave him an affectionate pat on the head as the fight ended.

Outfielder Bob Cerv of the New York Yankees is a graduate of the University of Nebraska. He received a B.S. degree in education.

Detroit Defeats Michigan State 84-78 In Overtime

EAST LANSING, Mich. (P)—The University of Detroit basketball team staged a surprising upset Saturday night by tying highly regarded Michigan State 74-44 at the end of regular play and then fighting on to win 84-78 in the five minute overtime.

Just last Wednesday, Fordy Anderson, the new Michigan State coach, attracted national attention when his team beat Marquette 91-72 to set a single game scoring record for the MSC Spartans.

During the first half, Detroit controlled the ball to smother the MSC running attack and led 31-28 at the intermission.

Forward Julius McCoy, who made 31 points last week, went out with a sprained ankle during the half to hurt the Michigan State chances.

The Michigan State guards started hitting in the second half and at one point MSC had an 8-point lead.

But Detroit came back to tie it up and made good use of free throws in the overtime.

Forward Guy Sparrow collected 11 baskets and 8 free throws for 30 points to lead the Detroit attack.

Houston Hands Detroit 19-7 Loss

HOUSTON (P)—After fumbling the ball 14 times the first three periods, Houston and Detroit crammed three touchdowns in the last four minutes Saturday as Houston took a 19-7 victory to grab second place in final Missouri Valley Conference standings.

A crowd of fewer than 8,000 sat in the 70,000-seat Rice Stadium to see fumbles and four interceptions stop practically everything until the third-quarter final minutes.

Before the final, uprisings, Houston had crossed the Detroit 41 only on a 77-yard scoring drive in the second quarter, halfback Don Horvath skirting left end from the 10 for the score.

With 4 minutes left in the final period, quarterback Jimmy Dickey made it 13-0 by passing 9 yards to halfback Jim Baughman. Detroit came right back and scored in two passing plays, quarterback Jim Lobbokovich hitting end Bob Chendres for the final 20.

On the first play after the kickoff, Dickey ran 58 yards for the final Houston score. Only six seconds remained.

Detroit scoring: Touchdown, Cerdas, Conversion, Beluso.

Houston scoring: Touchdowns, Hargrove, Baughman, Dickey. Conversion, Cray.

Baltimore's Field Goal In Final Seconds Beats Rams 22-21

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (P)—The Baltimore Colts kicked their fifth field goal with 12 seconds left in the game to literally beat the Los Angeles Rams into submission Saturday 22-21 in a weird and exciting battle.

As 30,744 fans looked on in astonishment at the rapid change of complexion in the game, quarterback Gary Kerkorian, injured in the first half, came off the bench and kicked a 13-yard field goal for the precious winning points.

Suddenly facing defeat after leading almost the entire way, the Colts traveled 75 yards in the waning moments on the dead-eye passing of a rookie quarterback, Cotton Davidson, from Baylor.

Davidson, with his club behind 19-21, fired seven consecutive strikes to send the Colts roaring into the Rams' five. As the seconds ticked off, Kerkorian came in to defeat the Rams.

The disension - a troubled Los Angeles club, torn in a rift with in the coaching ranks, suddenly came to life in the fourth quarter and scored two touchdowns.

It looked like the Rams had united long enough to win this nationally televised game but the Colts would not give up and came back to hand the Rams their fifth loss of the season.

The major share of the victory, aside from the dramatic final seconds placekick, belonged to halfback Bert Rechichar, who kicked four field goals.

Indiana Downs Valparaiso 77-66 In Opener

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (P)—Indiana's defending Big Ten champions opened their pre-conference basketball campaign Saturday night with a 77-66 victory over a deliberate Valparaiso team. Wally Choice of Indiana and Ed Eckart of Valpo tied for scoring honors with 29 points apiece.

Don Schlundt, Indiana's All-America center, sat out 10 minutes of the second half but scored 20 points on seven field goals and six free throws.

Valparaiso worried the Hoosiers at the start with a two out, three in, weaving offense and built up a 25-14 lead after 10 minutes.

Schlundt and Choice whittled the Valpo margin and Charley Hodson hit a shot from the center of the floor that put Indiana in front 34-33 and the Hoosiers led the rest of the way. It was 44-33 Indiana at the half.

Hodson's floor play was outstanding and he scored 10 points.

DePaul's Final Basket Nips Minnesota 91-93

CHICAGO (P)—Ron Sobieszyk stole the ball for a basket with 17 seconds remaining in an overtime to give De Paul a thrilling 94-93 victory over Minnesota in the Gophers' opening game at the Chicago Stadium Saturday night.

Loyola and Iowa met in the finale of a twin bill.

The De Paul-Minnesota game was forced into the five-minute extra period on three straight baskets by Sophomore Gerald Lindsey, the last with 10 seconds of regulation time remaining.

The Gophers had two 25-point scorers in Chuck Mencil and Dick Garmaker, the latter going out on fouls with about five minutes left.

Blueboys Come Back To Nip Hosts After Playing 2 Overtimes

Dick Barnes stepped up to the free throw line after the final horn had sounded ending the second five minute overtime and sank the first of his two gift shots to give the Illinois College Blueboys an 86-85 edge on Greenville in the first Prairie Conference game of the season for the two schools.

The Blueboys had a slim lead at the end of both the first and second quarters but were overtaken by the hot shooting Panthers in the third period. At the end of the regulation game the score was tied 73 all. The Blueboys were behind seven points with four minutes to go in the regulation game. The scrappy hosts pressed the visitors and came up to a deficit of two points with 35 seconds to go. Barnes was fouled at this point and the sophomore stepped to the line and made both shots to tie the game and send the hard fought contest into the first of two overtimes.

It was Barnes' free throw at the end of the first five minute overtime period that tied the score at 77 all and sent the contest into the second overtime. In the second extra five minute period both teams hit two quick buckets and the visitors hit a third one to take a two point lead. Roger Curfman was fouled and stepped to the line and sank two free throws to tie the score 85-85.

With about a minute to go, the Blueboys took the ball and began a "one shot stall." Stansfield and Barnes dribbled the ball back and forth for 55 seconds before Barnes drove to the free throw line and attempted a jump shot. He missed the shot, the horn ended the overtime, but a foul was called and the 5-6 former Crimson star stepped to the gift line. He made his first one and some 2,500 fans jumped to their feet (the ones who weren't already standing) and cheered wildly. After a slight pause, he shot the second one and missed, but who cared?

This is the first time the local college has played in a double overtime for over ten years and the victory was the Blueboys' third of the campaign and their first conference win.

Ed Harrell lead the scoring for the winners with 30 points while Bob Stansfield continued his fine scoring with 20 points.

Young had 27 for the losers. Greenville shot 41.5 percent from the field while the Blueboys hit for only 27 percent.

Joe Jones Wins Campbell Handicap

BOWIE, Md. (P)—Joe Jones, a 4-year-old gelding, showed signs Saturday of looking like his father, the famous Styrmie, by coming from behind to whip 12 other horses in track record time in the inaugural John B. Campbell Handicap.

Styrmie was a late finisher, both in races and his career, eventually winding up one of the biggest money winners of all time.

The $20,000 Joe Jones earned raised his 1954 total to $120,576. Joe Jones whizzed around the Bowie track in 1:50 4-4 seconds and three fifths faster than the mile and an eighth record set by a horse named Guy last year.

Jockey Conn McCreary barreled him down the stretch to win by a length and a half over Impasse. Another length and a quarter back was Prince Hill.

Joe Jones returned $4.00, $8.20 and $2.00.

S.W. Nichols Xmas Foundation May Go Over $10,000 Soon

The Nichols Foundation, which has provided Christmas cheer to thousands of needy children in the Jacksonville public schools for more than a quarter of a century, will again provide happiness to about 300 children of the city.

The Nichols Foundation was established by the late Samuel W. Nichols, one of the publishers of the Jacksonville Journal Courier, who gave $2500 to the fund, the interest to be used each year for needy children who would otherwise have little Christmas.

For several years this amount was not sufficient to care for the number of children who were eligible to receive gifts from the fund.

Nineteen years ago the Jacksonville Journal Courier started receiving voluntary gifts to increase the fund.

Citizens of the Jacksonville area have been very generous in their donations throughout the years. Several persons have left money to the fund in their wills.

$234 Added Last Year
Last year citizens contributed $234 to the fund.

This year the fund received $500 from the estate of Mrs. Pauline F. Gomez.

With this money added to the fund the Nichols Foundation now has a total of $9600. It is hoped that this amount can be increased to $10,000 this year.

Loami Woman, Trapped 3 Hours Under Debris Of Wreck, Recovering

Mrs. Clarence Russell, 42, of Loami, was making recovery from serious injuries Saturday at Springfield Memorial hospital, while funeral arrangements were made for her husband and Mrs. Lettie Edwards, 68, a neighbor, who were killed at Bates in an automobile-tractor trailer collision Friday night.

Although trapped three hours under the wreckage of the two vehicles, Mrs. Russell remained conscious. Reports from the hospital yesterday indicated that she is suffering from leg injuries and shock, but that her condition is encouraging.

The automobile driven by Russell, custodian of the Loami school, was involved in a collision with a tractor trailer loaded with 30,000 pounds of meat, Russell, accompanied by his wife and Mrs. Edwards, is reported to have tried to make a left-hand turn from Route U. S. 36 into the Loami road, which crosses the Wash tracks. Coroner W. C. Telford of Sangamon county said the transport apparently struck the car broadside as the transport attempted to pass another car.

The transport driver, George Hooker of Independence, Mo., escaped without injuries.

Truck Piles On Car
The Russell car overturned and landed in the ditch between the highway and railroad tracks, with the truck piled on top of it. More than three hours passed before Mrs. Russell was rescued and the bodies of her husband and Mrs. Edwards were removed. Rescuers finally got inside the crushed car by digging in the earth underneath it.

Russell's body was removed to the McCullough Funeral Home in Loami, where friends may call after 3 p.m. today and until noon Tuesday.

Husband's Funeral Tuesday
Funeral services will be held at

Holiday Shoppers By Thousands Visit City

Jacksonville tightened its claim as the outstanding shopping center in West Central Illinois, when thousands moved through the business district Saturday, looking, buying and getting ready for Christmas. It was one of the busiest days in the shopping district in several years.

The big buying surge started with the opening of stores Saturday morning. It continued steadily throughout the day and evening. Shoppers from a wide area mingled with local citizens who are preparing for the holidays. They were attracted by attractively decorated show windows, large stocks of quality merchandise, and the general festive air that hangs over the city at this time of year.

In Central Park, perfectly at home in his gayly decorated cabin, Santa Claus chatted and joked with young admirers. The line of "guests" in front of Santa's house, waiting to shake his hand, was much longer than usual. Santa Claus interviews are broadcast each afternoon over Station WLDS.

Stores, Streets Crowded
But it was the crowded stores, the heavy traffic both vehicular and pedestrian, the hundreds of packages and bundles being carried to automobiles, that gave an index to the busy holiday season. Jacksonville merchandise will be delivered by Santa Claus in a big area of Central Illinois, come Christmas morning.

Holiday decorations caught the eye of both city residents and visitors. Balmam roping, seven-foot "candy canes," and life-size reindeer with red noses which glow at night, add a pleasing Yuletide touch to the business district scene.

Next Friday night the stores will remain open until 9 o'clock the first of the holiday season.

Births
A daughter was born at 9:28 a.m. Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Rescoe B. Betts, Palmira route two at Passavant hospital, weight eight pounds, six and one-half ounces.

Amalgamated Gives $2,500 To Hospital As Neirman Memorial

Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, Jacksonville Local No. 199, have pledged a total of $2,500 to Our Saviour's hospital building fund, it was announced Saturday by officials of the organization.

The pledge was presented by Owen Nunes, president, Frank Quinlan, vice president, and Harold W. Lair, secretary-treasurer of the local union of the nation wide organization, to Wilbur H. Kurtz, chairman of the memorial gifts division of the building fund organization.

This gift from members of the union has been designated as a memorial to the late Louis Neirman who was manager of the local body for many years.

In receiving the gift from officials of Amalgamated Clothing Workers, chairman Kurtz commended the organization for its interest and support of the hospital program. "Once again you have demonstrated your active participation in a program which will prove beneficial to everyone in the community — this gift will serve and serve for years to come. Everyone is most grateful for your support," chairman Kurtz stated.

The third report meeting for the Our Saviour's Building Fund will be held on Thursday, December 9 at 3:30 p.m. in the Banquet Room of the Dunlap Hotel, instead of on Wednesday, December 8 as previously announced.

At the second report meeting last week $225,246 was reported on the campaign goal of $750,000.

Chairman Urges Action
Edward C. Schultz, general chairman, said that many prospects were still unreported and everyone connected with the fund raising program is being urged to secure pledges at the earliest date possible and to bring them to the next meeting. "We realize," Mr. Schultz stated, "that when people are considering substantial pledges to a capital fund-raising campaign of this kind, time is essential in order for a decision to be made. We believe that bulk of the prospects have been contacted and that their pledges will be forthcoming shortly."

In commenting on the returns to date, Mr. Schultz said, "When we consider the large number of persons who have not yet made their pledges, we are quite encouraged. We realize that we have a big job ahead of us in order to complete the raising of this $750,000 that is so essential to the future well-being of our community. We will continue our efforts until this minimum goal has been achieved."

Memorial Division
Reports to date of the Memorial Gifts Committee, under the chairmanship of Wilbur H. Kurtz and Sam E. Pack, show that coverage of prospects amounts to 46%. There remains 54% to be reported. '30 PASSENGERS PERISH, 12 SCALED'

Old Steamer Travel Was Dangerous

Have you got the atomic-age jitters? Are you afraid of being blown in little pieces to the Eternal Kingdom?

Relax, and read about American life when it was really dangerous, back in the steamboat days—when every man made his will before embarking on a trip and his family and his relatives accompanied him to the boat, and locked him in their fond embrace ere he stepped aboard the gangplank.

About 110 years ago a slight, nervous newspaper reporter spent every waking moment at the Cincinnati riverfront. He questioned everybody about everything from recent immigration movements to the price of jute. But mostly about steamboat disasters.

His name was James T. Lloyd. Just a hundred years ago he culled his writings and compiled Lloyd's Steamboat Disasters. A copy of this interesting book is now owned by Max Lupcanian of Meredosia.

Plenty of Hazards

Boats were vulnerable structures. They sagged, grounded, caught on fire, collided, fell apart, capsized, etc. Worst of all, the boilers often blew up.

Telling about the disaster of the Augusta near Natchez in 1838, Lloyd wrote:

"The boiler and all the machinery were broken to minute pieces; the social hall, with all its appointments, were shattered, according to the common phraseology, 'into atoms'."

An exploding steam boiler really packed a wallop.

Lloyd tells about the explosion on April 2, 1852 that destroyed the packet Redstone, "a small boat about three years old" built at Pittsburgh for the Brownsville Slackwater Navigation.

"High in the Air"

"She left Madison about noon on the day aforesaid, with 30 or 40 passengers on board, and had stopped above Carrollton to take in a Mr. Scott. His parents accompanied him to the shore, and were looking at him when the boat began to move off; a moment later, they were horrified by seeing him blown high in the air, and then fell into the river. Two boilers exploded—one of them was blown on shore and, in its course, prostrated a sycamore tree two feet in diameter.

"The trees and the shore, for hundreds of yards, were lined with shreds of clothing, sheets, blankets, and other vestiges of the wreck. A man's boot, ripped and torn, was picked up more than 600 yards from the wreck, whither it had been blown, no doubt, from the top of some unhappy victim.

Evils of Drink

"A passenger who had got on the boat at Milton, was taking a drink at the bar, and, after paying for it, was returning his purse to his pocket, when he was blown into the river and drowned. A Mr. Claxon, of Carrollton, was on the boat, and was blown ashore, but, strange to tell, he did not receive the slightest injury."

Sure the H bomb is powerful but it can't kill you any deadlier than the folks aboard the Louisiana when it "blew into atoms" at New Orleans on Nov. 15, 1849.

"She was laden with a valuable cargo," reports Lloyd, "and had on board a large number of passengers. The last bell was rung, and the machinery set in motion; but at the moment the boat disengaged herself from the wharf and began to back out into the river, all the boilers exploded with a concussion which shook all the houses for many squares around to their very foundations.

Goodbye, Mule

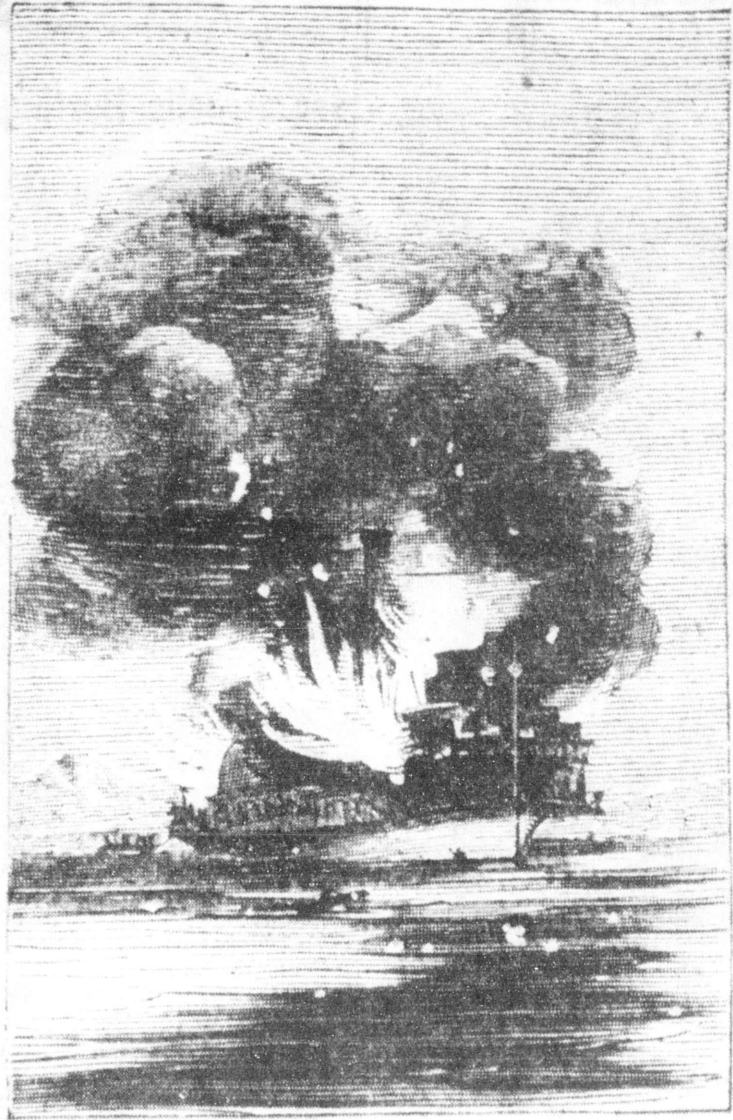

"The violence of the explosion was such that large pieces of the boilers were blown hundreds of yards from the wharf, falling on the levee and in different parts of the city. One of these iron fragments cut a mule in two, and then struck a horse and day, killing both driver and horse, instantly. Another mass of iron, of considerable size, was projected to the corner of Canal and Front streets, 200 yards from the exploded steamer, where it threw down three large iron pillars which supported the roof of the portico of a coffee-house. Before it reached the iron pillar, the fragment passed through several bales of cotton which lay in its passage."

Strange things happen in an explosion. When the Marquette blew apart at New Orleans, "the pilot, Mr. Frederick Ostrander, who was at the wheel, was blown to a considerable distance, and fell on the hurricane deck of the steamer Yazoo City. One of his thighs was dislocated and his hip broken by the fall.

"Annihilated"

"It is mentioned as a remarkable circumstance, that Mr. Ostrander's hat was blown in an opposite direction and fell on another boat. The pilot house which this gentleman had occupied, after ascending to a great height, came down on the forecastle of the steamer, James Pitcher, occasioning some damage to that vessel. The wheel, for a part of the steering apparatus, which Mr. Ostrander held at the time of the explosion, appears to have been annihilated, as not the smallest fragment of it could be found afterwards."

Property damages ran high and the strong box was lost. Presumably there's one still in the Mississippi stream from Vicksburg that contained "an extraordinary amount of cash, upwards of $12,000."

BURNING OF THE CLARKVILLE.

Above is a slightly enlarged reproduction of a woodcut that appeared in Lloyd's Steamboat Disasters, printed in Cincinnati just a hundred years ago.

Here is the story about the disaster.

"The popular and beautiful steamer Clarksville, a regular packet boat between New Orleans and Memphis was destroyed by fire near Ozark island on the 27th day of May, 1848; 30 deck passengers, nearly all the crew and the commander, Capt. Holmes, lost their lives. The cabin passengers were all saved.

"We have obtained the following particulars of this melancholy event," the author reports.

"As soon as the alarm of fire was given on board, the pilot steered for the island. At the moment her head touched shore, the flames burst into the cabin, one of the boilers burst simultaneously, and, to aggravate the calamity still more, three kegs of gunpowder, which were among the freight, exploded at the same instant. Gov. Poindeux, of Tennessee, who was one of the passengers received some injuries.

"Most of the passengers lost their baggage and none of the officers or crew saved anything.

"Capt. Holmes acted most nobly throughout the trying scene, who, after swimming ashore with his wife, returned to the boat, and met his death in the honorable discharge of his duty. His first impulse was to save the female passengers. Rushing to the ladies' cabin, he prevailed on the affrighted occupants to take the chairs, with the life-preservers attached to them, and commit themselves to the water. He then threw the baggage, etc. overboard to lessen the combustible material, and now being exhausted by his exertions, and half suffocated with smoke, he attempted to jump overboard but striking against the lower guard, he fell among the burning runs, and there perished.

"Some 12 passengers were severely scalded."

In the same accident "Mr. J. H. French, one of the passengers, had with him three negro slaves, and three valuable horses, among them the celebrated Ann Hayes; these slaves and horses were all drowned."

But sometimes valuable property was saved, usually by the efforts of the hero of the day, as when the Shepherdess sank off St. Louis on Jan. 3, 1844:

Gallant Saves Fat Girl
"A young man, Robert Bullock, of Maysville, Ky., was one of the passengers. With heroic devotion to the cause of humanity, he took no measures for his own safety, but directed all his efforts to the preservation of the women and children.

"When every other male person of mature age had deserted the cabin," (some folks were craven even in the good old days) "he went from state-room to state-room, and wherever he heard a child cry took it out and passed it to the hurricane deck. In this way he saved a number of women and children.

"His last effort was to rescue Col. Wood's 'Ohio Fat Girl,' who happened to be on board. Her weight was 440 pounds, but with the assistance of several persons on the hurricane deck, he succeeded in raising her to that place of security."

"If such a fat girl survived a steamboat accident, maybe both of us will pull through without being 'blown into atoms.'"

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

SHOULD THE PRICE OF MILK BE RAISED?

The government is now supporting the price of butterfat at 56 cents a pound and the price of manufacturing milk at $3.16 a hundred pounds. Should the price support level be raised? This question is of much concern to about one million farmers in the United States who produce most of our milk, as well as to the many millions of families that buy milk and other dairy products.

About one-half (54 percent) of all Illinois farms sell some dairy products, but on many farms dairying is a small side line. The sale of milk and butterfat last year brought Illinois farmers 175 million dollars, or about 8½ percent of their total income. The sale of dairy products brought U. S. farmers 4.4 billion dollars, or 14 percent of their gross cash income.

Consumer Expenditures. A typical family of four persons spends about $200 a year for dairy products. About two-thirds of this amount goes for fluid milk and cream.

Prices of milk are lower than most dairymen would like, but slightly higher than consumers generally are able and willing to pay. This year the government's net purchases of dairy products in order to support prices will amount to about 4 percent of the total output of milk.

Marketing Costs. Marketing costs generally take about 54 cents of each dollar the consumer spends for fluid milk and other dairy products. Labor and other distribution costs vary widely from city to city, being nearly twice as high in some cities as in others.

Uses of Milk. About 46 percent of all milk is sold to the consumer as fluid milk and cream, while another 5 percent is sold as evaporated and condensed milk. These products have a strong market and relatively little direct competition. Fluid milk is the best source of calcium among our foods.

About 27 percent of all milk is used for butter, and another 6 percent is used for ice cream. Butter must sell in competition with margarine, which is made mostly from U.S.-produced soybean and cottonseed oils. Margarine retails for 25 to 35 cents a pound, while butter sells for 65 to 75 cents. Per capita consumption of butter dropped from 17 pounds annually in 1935-39 to 8.6 pounds in 1951 and 1952, and it will be about 9 pounds for 1954. Consumption of margarine was below 2 pounds in 1935-39, but increased to 4 pounds during the war and to 8 pounds since 1951.

Consumption of ice cream averaged 25 pounds a year before World War II, jumping to 57 pounds in 1946 and staying at about 45 pounds in recent years. Sales of ice cream substitutes have increased in recent years. Some of these substitutes use low cost vegetable oils in place of butterfat and are priced somewhat lower than ice cream.

About 11 percent of all milk is used for cheese, which is valuable mainly for its protein. Principal competing protein foods are beef, pork, lamb, poultry, eggs and fish. Per capita consumption of cheese averaged 8½ pounds before the war and has been around 7½ pounds in the past few years.

Will The Consumer Pay More? Higher price supports for dairy products would probably benefit dairy farmers in the short run. But higher prices would also encourage more farmers to stay in the milk business and would help to sell more of the products than compete with butter, ice cream and cheese.

The consumer is paying for price supports at the present level without much complaint. But he would probably not be willing to pay higher prices for butter and other dairy products and to pay out more in taxes for price supports at the same time.

Other features of the month were mixed rain and snow on the first; heavy fog on the 19th, light snow on the 24th and mixed rain, sleet and snow on the 30th. The high was 72 on the 13th and 16th; the low, 21 on the 3rd.

There were 13 clear days, 5 partly cloudy and 12 cloudy. Winds on 12 days were from the north-west; 7 from the southeast; N. E. 3, S. S. 3, W. 2, W. 2, and E. 1.

Completions made by the Norbury Weather Station shows that rainfall for the first 11 months of the year in Jacksonville was only 33.85 inches, almost five inches less than the 10 year average.

Lincoln School Cub Scouts Present Historical Program

Cub Scouts and parents of Pack 104 met in the cafeteria of Lincoln school Thursday night December 2.

The meeting was opened with the Cub Scouts reciting the pledge of allegiance along with Cubmaster Robert Quigley and all others attending.

Den 3 was a recent addition to the Pack. Mrs. Grace Jones is the Den mother. Mrs. Jesse Covey is her assistant. New Parents introduced were Mr. and Mrs. Bud Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Dewese, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Hopper and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Nunes.

The Pack will have a potluck supper Thursday, December 30 in the Lincoln school cafeteria at 6 p. m. The committee for the supper is Mrs. Grace Jones, Mrs. Pearl Davenport, Mrs. Earl Babjohns and Mrs. Ray Walker. The Pack will furnish the meat for the meal.

Cubmaster Robert Quigley presided over an impressive ceremony of Tommie Golder, Billie Hawks, Ellis Lee Herrin, Reggie Babjohns, and Jan Walker receiving their Bobcat pins.

Adventures in history was the theme of the month. Den 1 performed Christopher Columbus landing in the Santa Maria. Jerry Western, Ritchie Western, Larry Quigley, Ellis Lee Herrin, Reggie Babjohns and John Robert Covey took part singing of Christopher Columbus.

Mike McCurley, Den Chief for Den 2, read a story about the pilgrims arriving here on the Mayflower. Gary Campbell, Gary Birdsell, Tommy DePreitas, Tommy Golder, Billie Hawks, Tommy Hovey, Russell Seeman and Jan Walker played the parts of the Pilgrims and attacking Indians.

Den 3 began their part of the program with the boys reciting their Promise. The second part was a setting in Tennessee. Daniel Boone shot a bear in a tree. He was accompanied by three Indian braves. Those taking part were Jimmie Davenport, Richard Dewese, Larry Hopper and Terry Nunes.

Mrs. Loren DePreitas and Mrs. William Hawks assisted by Mrs. Grace Jones served refreshments.

The Andersons and their Poland Chinas dominated the 1954 International swine show, winning both junior and senior grand championships.

At the auction held Friday a food chain purchased the prized porker for $335 a pound. This was higher than the $185 paid for the grand champion last year, but well below the record of $7 a pound paid in 1945.

'BETTER MILK' IS PANEL'S SUBJECT

LIVESTOCK DISEASE eradication specialists and public health administrators formed a panel Wednesday evening to answer questions by dairymen and veterinarians meeting at Farm Bureau hall.

Dr. H. P. Houshead, standing, was the moderator of the panel discussion. He is the USDA livestock inspector for Morgan and Scott counties.

Seated from left are Dr. E. E. Moon, Pittsfield, livestock inspector for Pike and Adams counties; Dr. A. K. Merriman, superintendent of the division of livestock industry, Springfield; Dr. T. K. Jones, assistant inspector in charge of USDA animal disease eradication, Springfield; Dr. N. H. Howlett, inspector in charge, Springfield; M. R. McAvoy, state sanitary milk inspector, and James Hildebrand, Morgan County sanitarian.

The question and answer period followed the showing of two movies by Assistant Farm Adviser Joe Faggett. The first one dealt with brucellosis or Bang's disease, which causes abortion and poor health among cattle, swine and goats, and undulant fever when the disease is contracted by man. The second film showed how Grade A milk may be produced efficiently.

The battle against brucellosis is helping bring the disease under control, and in some states the disease appears to have been eradicated, the speakers said. The national rate of infection 12 years ago was slightly over 6%. Today the figures are 3.6% for the nation, 2.8% for Illinois and 2.2% in Morgan county.

Dr. Howlett said that calfhood vaccination appeared to be the best way to combat brucellosis. He related that in Jersey County, where an intensive testing and vaccination program was begun 10 years ago, the infection rate has dropped from slightly more than 6% down to one-half of one percent. The same results were achieved in intensive county-wide campaigns staged in New York and California.

Dr. Houshead warned that only herds with a brucellosis eradication program will be eligible for a Grade A milk classification after next July 1. Federal funds for blood testing are again available, he continued, or trade.

and all veterinarians in the county are now authorized to perform this service without charge to the herd owner.

Dr. Merriman strongly urged isolation for all newly purchased animals, keeping them out of the herd until they are proved brucellosis-free. He also advised that farmers keep a much closer check on their vaccination certificates and declared that certificates should change hands at the conclusion of any sale or trade.

ON BEHALF OF FUTURE CITIZENS

Now that scientific tests throughout all sections of the country have proved that decay in children's teeth can be safely reduced through fluoridation of the public water supply, there is no valid reason why Jacksonville's boys and girls should be deprived any longer of the advantages of this well recognized public health measure.

More than a year ago an effort was made to interest the City Council in taking action to add fluorides to our water. At that time we endorsed the idea editorially, pointing out that the Dental and Medical Associations had recommended fluoridation and that the State Department of Public Health approved fluoridation plans.

Our opinion that fluoridation would be a good thing for the young people of this community has not changed. It has, in fact, been strengthened as the statistics accumulate, proving very definitely that wherever fluoridation of water has been adopted there has been a marked drop in tooth decay without any adverse affects whatsoever.

The P.T.A. groups of Jacksonville, composed predominantly of fathers and mothers who want their children to develop strong, healthy minds and bodies, have again been actively cooperating with the Morgan County Dental Society to promote fluoridation. This time their plea should be heard with favor at the City Hall.

The evidence in favor of fluoridation is overwhelming. This time it should be accepted in the interest of the future citizens of the city.

AN AID PLAN FOR ASIA

New ideas in foreign policy are as rare as violets in January. So naturally interest is stirred by talk in certain government circles of a different kind of "Marshall Plan" for Asiatic countries.

What distinguishes this proposal from the original, highly successful European version is that the United States would not be the sole contributor of aid funds. One senator, indeed, believes we should not even be the chief contributor.

Under the terms suggested, European nations which we have helped to find economic recovery would join us in extending assistance to underdeveloped Asiatic lands struggling for higher levels of living.

There would be a sort of neat justice in the spectacle of once-prostrate European folk lending a financial hand to others as America's hand not long ago was extended to them.

More than that, with such a broad, cooperative base, the program unquestionably would have greater appeal to the Asians themselves. Too many Asians still see something "imperialistic" in almost every move the United States makes in Asia. However unreasonable this may be, we still must find means of combating it.

A third vital consideration which makes the cooperative aspect of the proposal attractive is that the American Congress is unlikely to approve a sweeping aid plan for Asia under which the U.S. alone would bear the burden. We have already borne the aid load too long in too many places.

The proposal would resemble the Marshall Plan more closely in one major respect: The Asiatic countries would be asked to form an organization of their own, like the one in Europe, to formulate a program of needs and requests.

If such a unit could be formed, it could have a very wholesome effect on the future of free Asian peoples. They would be given important practice in the habit of working together, as they do not now do. With that practice, many nations not presently a part of the SEATO defense pact might be more inclined to participate in the common defense of Asia.

No one imagines even so imaginative a plan as this new one would have easy sledding with lawmakers grown weary of handing out U. S. aid. But certainly this proposal, rooted as it is in the idea that America would be just one of several helping nations, ought to get a very earnest look from Congress.

If we expect "coexistence" with communism to work for our benefit, we cannot sit idly by and watch Asia flounder. This Marshall-type proposal may or may not be the right one. But beyond all doubt we are going to have to devise some plan.

'Open House' Is Sign of Friendliness and Good Will

BY GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor

Friendliness and good will are the signs of Christmas. That's why "open house" seems such a fitting way to celebrate. All afternoon friends drop in, enjoy a cup of punch and some snacks with you, relax near the Christmas tree and help give meaning to the spirit of the day.

What should you serve? Very little, actually. But there should be a punch bowl surrounded by small punch glasses or cups. Also tiny sandwiches, dips and crackers or chips, nuts, tiny cakes or cookies, and tea and coffee for those who may want it. All these things should be placed on a table in the living room. Keep things simple, friendly, casual.

Two San Franciscans, Stanley Green, and his wife, Edith, who is a food consultant, follow this plan for a Christmas open house. They gave us their recipe for Guerneville punch. Guerneville is a lovely town on the Russian River, 40 miles north of San Francisco, noted for its apple orchards and vineyards.

Guerneville Holiday Punch
Two (4-5 quart) bottles red table

wine, chilled; 1 (1-quart) bottle apple juice, chilled; 2 table-spoons lemon juice; 1 cup sugar; 1 large bottle ginger ale, chilled.

Combine wine, apple juice, lemon juice and sugar in a punch bowl; stir to dissolve sugar. Pour in ginger ale and stir to blend. Add a block of ice or a tray of ice cubes. Serve at once. This makes about 3 1/2 quarts before dilution by ice. Note: If you want to use grape juice in place of the red wine, omit sugar in recipe and dilute grape juice with water to desired strength.

Here is the decidedly California menu suggested by our hospitable San Francisco friends.

Menu: Guerneville holiday punch, ripe olive and nut sandwiches, open-face ham sandwiches on rye bread, avocado and cream cheese dip with potato and corn chips, spice cookies with orange juice glaze, candied grapefruit strips, salted nuts, stuffed prunes.

MONDAY'S DINNER: Shred cold ham, potato pancakes, creamed cabbage, rye bread, butter or margarine, sliced bananas and oranges, coffee, tea, milk.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Guess what's the latest thing in men's pajamas. Well, sir, it's the ladies.

Eighty-six per cent of the pajamas sold today are bought by women, said M. J. Lovell, director of the Men's Pajama Institute. The 125-million-dollar-a-year industry, now booming again, will market 30 million pairs of men's pajamas by the end of 1954 double the number of only five years ago.

Can't figure out how many women buy pajamas for themselves, remarked Lovell. Many wives have got into the habit of rolling up the cuffs and sleeves of their husbands' pajamas and wearing them.

A lot of single girls now buy small sized men's pajamas for their own use too. Only reason we can find is that they feel more comfortable—roomier in the seat and chest.

Pajamas first achieved fame as a military uniform. About 160 A.D. Emperor Wu-Ti of China built up a cavalry brigade to stop the raids of mountain nomads. His cavalrymen found the draped garments of that day a nuisance in the saddle, and developed the pajama trouser so they could ride more easily.

Pajamas spread quickly from China to India, where they were soon widely adopted and worn for centuries for every purpose except sleeping. The British adopted them, and they made their debut in England as sleeping garments and were called "pajamas."

About 1870 they were introduced into America as "pajamas," and were viewed at first by our hardy folk with the same deep suspicion they showed for the first bathtubs. They still cling to nightshirts and nightgowns.

Theater matinee idols who wore pajamas in bedroom farces first convinced Mr. and Mrs. America that these colorful sleeping garments weren't the devil's boudoir bait. And when Rudolph Valentino wore them in a film, they became the rage.

But the war, plus the bragging of later Hollywood stars (actresses as well as actors) that they preferred sleeping in their birthday suits—cut pajama sales steeply.

"The idea got around that real men always slept raw," said Lovell sternly. "That's silly. All the U. S. athletes who will participate in the Pan-American games in Mexico City next spring will wear pajamas."

"I also deny these stories that many Hollywood actresses sleep raw. I'd like to see some concrete proof. I'd like to investigate that rumor myself."

Who wouldn't, even if the job required late hours?

The pajama industry now is stressing the all-around livability of pajamas for lounging, beachwear and TV viewing.

"Why, some men now even play golf in pajamas," said Lovell, and why not?

"Why not office pajamas too, so people could be more comfortable on the job?" I asked, carried away by his vision of a world relaxed.

"Please," said Lovell nervously. "Let's don't go into that now. One step at a time."

The World Today

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Alan Ladd takes the big leap into television Sunday night. But don't look for him to become a TV regular.

Ladd will perform a TV drama called "Committed" on the G.E. Theater. It's a filmed show, made by his own production company, Jaguar.

Thus the daring lad from Hot Springs, Ark. is working both sides of the entertainment street. But you can bet he will continue to string along with the theater movies. He can draw top price from the studios. In fact, most of his deals involve a share of the profits.

Even the TV deal we like that G.E. has the right to two uses of "Committed." Then it becomes Ladd's property.

"We can use it as a pilot film for a series if we want," Ladd said in his dressing room at Warner Brothers.

Does that mean he might do a series?

"I don't know," he replied. "We might make it as a series with someone else as a star. You see, the script is one of 28 Russ Hughes wrote for a radio series I did called 'Box 13.' It was about a writer who seeks new adventures to write about. The scripts could easily be adapted to television."

Ladd's deal with G.E. Theater is similar to those which have lured other top stars onto the home screens. James Stewart, Jane Wyman and Joan Crawford are among them. The stars retain ownership of their TV films and can use them as pilots to sell series. At least one star, Henry Fonda, is using the show as a tryout for a theatrical film. He'll do the Emmett Kelly life story, "The Clown," and may make a feature film thereafter.

Elk are increasing so rapidly in some parts of Northwestern United States that the herds have become too large for available feed.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

The Faith We Need for Today

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Recently I wrote of faith for this atomic age, citing the example of the writer of the 46th Psalm. That writer expressed his faith in God as "Our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." In striking words announced his fearlessness, even though "the earth should be removed, and the mountains carried into the midst of the sea."

Apart from the outward differences between that ancient time and our modern age, I cited how much his situation and experience actually were so much like our own. He lived in a small land, situated between great warring empires, which had been invaded again and again, and in which life was never safe—just as we live in a world of great insecurity today.

Discussing that situation, however I left out what is the most important part. The significant question is: How can we have the sort of faith for our time that the Psalmist had in his? Could we contemplate the blasting out of our world with similar strong faith? Is there a supreme power of faith that can cast out all fear? And, if there is how can we get it?

I believe that there is; and after thinking about it a great deal I have come to the conclusion that the only way that we can get such faith is by living with those who have it. I suppose it could be said that the way to get it is through prayer, and by direct communication with Christ until He becomes very real to us, and we live "in Him," as the Apostle Paul expressed it, the "in" in that case having the effect that it might have in relation to any environment in which we live.

That is true, and we cannot overemphasize our privilege of doing the right contact with God through Christ. But this is an instance in from year to year.

which human meditation can be very real and effective. I could hardly imagine one reading that 46th Psalm from day to day without catching something of the fearless faith of the man who wrote it. And I can think of no faith-inspiring experience in the casting out of fear more vital than in revealing his experiences with the Apostle Paul—the man who could count even his life not dear unto himself, as he faced an immediate future with a certainty that bounds and afflictions were awaiting him in Jerusalem (See Acts 20).

The Pauline Epistles, except in various passages like the 13th of 1 Corinthians in which Paul wrote of the perfect love that as the Apostle John said casts out fear, are as Peter said (II Peter 3:16) "hard to be understood." But, if one follows Paul through the Book of Acts, in his persecution, driven from city to city, in his floggings, his imprisonment, in the shipwreck so vividly described in Acts 27, in all the experiences which he himself summarized in II Corinthians 11:24-27, there is nothing hard to understand. I doubt whether one could face the lesser troubles and trials of our daily life, or even life's greater dangers without a strong infusion of faith and courage in companionship with a man who found his strength in companionship with Christ.

Fear today is itself a great part of the dangers that threaten our world. What new hope there could be if men everywhere were saying: "God is our refuge and strength, therefore will not we fear."

See Israelis Hurting Cause

By Engaging in U. S. Politics

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The annoyingly noisy yak-yak of Israeli and Arab propaganda exchanges in the United States reached a crescendo just before the U. S. elections in November.

There is a strong feeling among some leading Administration officials that Israeli officials and American Zionists went clear out of bounds in working for the election of Democratic candidates and the defeat of Republicans.

Their action was based on a belief that Democrats were more friendly to the Israeli cause than the GOP. It can be reported authoritatively that this agitation did the Israeli cause no particular good in Washington.

The principal complaint of the Israeli clique has been that the Eisenhower administration is now building up the strength of the Arab countries, while doing little or nothing for Israel.

ACTUALLY, ALMOST THE EXACT opposite is true. The total U. S. government aid to Israel is $340 million in round numbers. This includes $215 million of economic and Export-Import Bank loans of $135 million. In addition to this, United Jewish Appeal has collected over $400 million from Americans in bond sales and gifts which have been made exempt from U. S. taxes.

The total U. S. government aid to the Arab countries surrounding Israel is only a little over $100 million. The figures are Egypt $16 million, Jordan $9 million, Lebanon $7 million, Saudi Arabia $3 million plus an Export-Import Bank loan of $49 million, Iraq $5 million of economic aid plus an International Bank loan of under $13 million. Syria is not listed because this little country has refused offers of U. S. aid.

Also not included in the above figures are U. S. government appropriations of $150 million for relief of the Arab refugees from Israel. Of this sum, over $110 million has been spent to date. Private U. S. charities have also contributed over $8 million. United Nations have paid out $75 million for Arab relief.

IN SPITE OF ALL THESE FACTS, the American Zionist Bulletin charges that "our government 'meaning the U. S.' is actually subsidizing aggression, strife and social decay" in the Middle East.

From the American point of view, the Middle East situation is now far more stable than it was two years ago, when Secretary of State Dulles was greeted there with rotten eggs.

There is well-grounded hope that this stability will improve, if the two sides will refrain from trying to stir up their feud by creating new incidents artificially.

Incidentally, Britain, France and the United States have guaranteed Israel against Arab or any other aggression. No such reverse guarantees have been given to the Arab states.

The realities of the situation in the Middle East today are that Israel is far stronger, militarily and economically than the Arab states that surround her. There is no real unity in the Arab league. The countries in the league all have so many internal problems that they couldn't launch a new aggression if they wanted to.

Also not included in the above figures are U. S. government appropriations of $150 million for relief of the Arab refugees from Israel. Of this sum, over $110 million has been spent to date. Private U. S. charities have also contributed over $8 million. United Nations have paid out $75 million for Arab relief.

Mme. Mendes-France Wants To Resume Career—Painting

EDITORS—The wife of France's premier is highly regarded as an official hostess but of late she has some strong — and interesting — feelings on the duties that go with her position. Here's a close-up of attractive, capable Mme. Pierre Mendes-France that tells how she goes about her life as wife, mother — and artist.

By CARL HARTMAN

PARIS (AP) — "Mrs. France" says she's tired of being just the wife of an energetic prime minister. She's determined to start again her own career — painting — whether she stays in office or not.

Liliane Cicourel Mendes-France, who has just completed a visit to America with her husband, takes a quiet pride in her art. She has worked hard at it, on and off, more than 20 years. In between, she has worked equally hard helping her husband rise in politics, saving herself and her two sons from a concentration camp during World War II and bringing them up in a strange country — the United States.

Now that her husband has reached the top she does not care for the life.

Among the duties at which she wrinkles her pretty nose:

Going to the big fashion shows. Attending too many formal functions.

Dropping whatever she has in hand to travel out to the airport and greet a plane that does not arrive on time (though she did not mind when they came in with wounded soldiers from Indochina).

What she wants to do is devote a couple of days a week to painting for the next year or two, and build up enough work to hold a one-woman show.

Critics like what she has done. When she lived in New York she had more requests for portraits than she could accept. But she is determined not to have an exhibit of just old paintings, dragged out of closets and dusted off.

Now somewhere in her early 40's (she does not answer questions about her age), the premier's wife has a figure that is a little bit and slightly classical, moulded features and an abundance of black hair, frankly and attractively flecked with gray.

She was not born in France, but in Cairo, where her family owned the city's biggest department store. An English governess gave her a start on her excellent command of that language. Her parents brought her to France at the age of 11, and France has been her home ever since.

She met and married brilliant Pierre Mendes-France, the brother of a girl friend, who had just been elected the youngest deputy in the French Parliament. They had their two children early.

Bernard, now 20, is struggling with the mathematics and law his father considers necessary if he is to become a political economist. Michel, 18, wants to go into the Ecole Polytechnique, the top French engineering school.

Both still were very little boys when they were taken, just a step ahead of the German invasion, to the comparative safety of French Morocco.

The safety was only comparative. As the wife of a prominent democratic politician and a Jew who had been jailed for "desertion" because he wanted to keep fighting in North Africa, Mrs. Mendes-France got little rest from the police of a French government pledged to collaboration with the Nazis.

Several times they gave her 24 hours to get out of Morocco, and there was no place to go. The alternative: A camp in the desert where most of the inmates died after three months.

Finally visas for the United States came through. She and the two boys managed to leave 20 hours before their scheduled arrest.

She loved New York. The orders for portraits were attractive, especially so since for the first time in her life she was seriously short of money. But her sons were in poor health after the hardship of North Africa, and she was far from well herself. So she did only a few portraits — and then could not find the heart to sell them.

After the liberation of France and her return, she came back to her painting.

Mrs. Mendes-France has little patience with the conservative European idea of a wife's domestic duties.

She doesn't cook or even, she admits, supervise the cooking much. The family eats very simply, grilled meats, boiled vegetables, no wine.

Who Is The Most Beloved Person In Show Business? Right—It's The Guy With A Heart As Big As His Nose

Editor's Note—Things were exceptionally tough for young Jimmy Durante. He not only had to fight his way up through New York's East Side, he had to do it with the extra handicap of taking piano lessons. Now, at 61, he's not only one of the world's great pianists, he's quite a guy besides.

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD — Who is the most beloved person in show business?

At least a score in Hollywood, New York or Las Vegas lay claim to the title—and all have the press agents to prove it. But the rightful claimant, in most minds, is a little guy with a heart as big as his nose—and no press agent.

Jimmy Durante "would be the first to deny that he deserves any such affection. Yet on the wall of his Beverly Hills den hangs a plaque from B'nai B'rith which bestows the accolade on him in gold engraving. It may be significant that the donor is Jewish, the recipient Catholic.

There are a number of reasons why folks feel the way they do.

Durante's kindness is legendary, his loyalty has a memory that reaches all the way back to his boyhood. He may die broke as a result.

Stagehands get $160 tips after his TV shows. A few years ago he played the London Palladium for four weeks at $10,000 a week. The trip cost him $50,000. He took along 11 friends, only five of whom were needed in the act.

"It was probably da foist and last time any of these guys would ever get to see Europe," Jimmy explained.

At 61, an age when he should be slowing down, he still does as many or more benefits than anyone in town. But he avoids the big star-studded affairs, concentrates his talents in such places as obscure parish churches where a pastor needs a little help in building a playground or adding a classroom to a school.

Eddie Jackson is an example of Durante's loyalty. Years ago he and Lou Clayton joined Durante and put on a club act. When Clayton was stricken a few years ago, Durante spent hours at his bedside, was crushed when he died.

Durante's boyhood may provide the answer to his character today.

His lower East Side neighborhood was as tough as any in New York, and a spawning ground for many hoodlums. Growing up, Jimmy had an extra cross to bear. He was known as the kid who took piano lessons. But now he's grateful for the insistence of his Italian father that he keep up with his music. Otherwise, he thinks, he might have wound up in Sing Sing, as some of his school chums did.

He's a legitimate musician, a composer who has written hundreds of songs, including some he made famous. His early years were spent playing in honky-tonks where he was billed as "Ragtime Jimmy, the King of Harlem." Once, in a Coney Island spot, he teamed up with a singing waiter, a fellow with pop eyes who bounced all over the floor as he sang. The waiter was Eddie Cantor.

Cantor says Jimmy was the greatest jazz pianist of that era.

Durante and Cantor used to boast to customers that the number never was written that they couldn't sing and play. It was a gimmick that brought big tips from homesick drunks.

"When World War I came, Jimmy went in the Army but his knowledge of music got him in the band instead of the infantry.

"Here I was leadin' a band down Broadway to sell liberty bonds. What a war dat was!"

Jimmy took up bandleading after the war, made friends with a strutting singer by the name of Eddie Jackson. Prohibition came and a waiter approached Durante with the idea of opening a speak-

They hired a sign painter to hang up a sign. He couldn't spell, any better than Durante and thus the club Durant was born. It became one of the landmarks of the prohibition era.

Durante played piano for awhile then decided he should try for laughs too. His roughhouse comedy was timed for that rowdy era. He started playing the piano less and throwing the furniture at drummer Jack Roth more. Roth has been the target for Durante's wild antics for 30 years.

Clayton, Jackson and Durante, along with Texas Guinan, became the top attractions of this giddy period. Sime Silverman, the founder of Variety, became a booster of the three. Soon they were out of the club and playing the Palace.

In this period of 1928-29-30 their energy was unbelievable. Between the Palace and the speakeasy clubs they were playing from six to eight shows a day between noon and 2 a.m.

Next came Broadway shows and in the early 30's, the movies beckoned—but only to Durante.

Characteristically, he brought the whole bunch along. Clayton became business manager and when personal appearances or benefits came up, it was Clayton, Jackson and Durante again. Only Clayton's death in 1950 split them.

Durante may have been the big star of pictures and radio but when the trio performed, he was just one of the act.

Durante's abuse of the King's English is no affectation. He was brought up on New York's lower East Side and quit school in the seventh grade.

Once Garry Moore, a radio partner of Durante's, tried to educate Durante so he would pronounce words right on the radio. It was a hopeless effort and finally one day Durante took Moore aside and said:

"You mean well, kid, and tanks, but if you teach me to say dem words right, we're both out of a job."

Durante's memory, or lack of it, with scripts is famous in television. "I'm the only comic who don't need no cards or prompters," he boasts.

What other comic could get by for years, as Durante has, with the same opening and ending and little variation in between? It may come as a revelation to many constant viewers that Durante always starts off with "Ya Gotta Start Each Day Wid A Song", and then he goes into "Let Me Hear Dat Note!" and "Stop Da Music."

And his ending, "Goodnight, Mrs. Kalabash, wherever you are" is easily the most poignant — and oldest-ending in show business.

And who is Mrs. Kalabash?

No one, not even Jackson, knows. "Many years ago," confides Jackson, "I asked Jimmy who she was and all he said was 'Eddie, be a pal. Don't ever ask me again' and I never have."

Many, who claim to know, say it is just a piece of smart showmanship to put a little heart into the act, also a little mystery, but that it is wholly fictitious. Others say that it is a greeting to a long ago boarding house matron who befriended Jimmy when he was a hungry piano player.

But best guess—and I base that on a reporter's intuition after asking him the question many times—is that it's the pet name for his wife to whom he was very devoted. She died in 1943.

He never has remarried though in recent years he has acquired red haired Margie Little to premieres and openings. But like anyone else who is friendly with Durante, she must share him along with the rest of the Durante entourage of Jackson, pianist Jules Buffano, drummer Jack Roth, writer Jackie Barnett and a half dozen others.

"Where Durante goes, everybody goes," asserts The Schnoz.

Cadillac

The Hour Every Motorist Owes to Himself!

The happy man you see in this picture is bringing himself up to date.

Cadillac has written a whole new chapter for the book defining motor car performance, and he's taking an hour to find out what it says.

And it says plenty—of very great importance.

First of all, it tells you what it's like to have command of a 250-horsepower engine that's as smooth as velvet, and so quick and eager that you have to educate your driving toe all over again.

It tells you what it's like to have virtually every trace of unevenness in the highway completely eliminated before it is even noticeable to driver or to passengers.

And it tells you what it's like to relax amidst upholstery fabrics that are found nowhere else, save in the 1955 Cadillac—not even in the finest clubs or hotels.

All this is to say, of course, that Cadillac has made another tremendous advance in design and engineering—so great, in fact, that only a drive and a personal inspection can let you realize its significance.

And, naturally, in addition to all that is new—there is yet greater emphasis on all the long-existing Cadillac virtues:

—the endurance that enables a Cadillac owner to keep his car just as long as he elects to do so...and with complete confidence in its dependability—

—the amazing economy of operation and upkeep which causes many owners to maintain that it is the most economical car on the American highway—

—the great personal satisfaction that comes from owning a car which is recognized, wherever highways lead, as the Standard of the World.

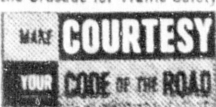

We cordially invite you to come in—today—to see and drive this wonderful, wonderful car.

There are eight models—in four different series—including the sensational Eldorado.

There is one to please you—exactly. And we think you'll be surprised and delighted at how little it costs, in comparison with lesser cars.

We're waiting for you—now!

Auto Safety Experts Make Tests To Determine What Happens To Car In High Speed Accident

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 23-year-old engineering student lost control of his automobile and crashed into a utility pole. The front of the car was demolished and the pole jarred loose from its base.

The student, Francis M. Kocinski, escaped with two chipped teeth. He thought he was lucky. He said his life was saved by a safety belt he was wearing.

"If I hadn't had it on," he said, "I would have gone through the windshield."

Plenty of support for Kocinski's faith in auto safety belts can be found at Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, Inc., here.

Alvin C. Smith, project engineer on auto crash safety at the laboratory, says safety belts could eliminate about half of the 11 million personal injuries suffered each year in auto accidents.

He says some modifications in design also would reduce auto fatalities, which last year totaled more than 38,000.

In the future, he predicts, motorists may escape injury in crashes occurring at speeds as high as 50 miles an hour.

To Smith, the modern auto is an "over-sized container" built to meet the public's demand for style and performance. It is loaded with lethal potentialities for its human contents, he says.

His view is not unique. It also was advanced by two safety experts at a recent meeting of the National Safety Congress in Chicago.

J. H. Mathewson and D. M. Severy, of the University of California's Institute of Transportation and Traffic Engineering, told that meeting that there had been no significant engineering contributed to motorists' safety since the start of World War II.

Cornell's laboratory has had its auto crash safety program under way for several years. The work is sponsored by the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., the United States Rubber Co., the Hickok Manufacturing Co. and a major auto maker who chooses to remain anonymous.

Project engineers have been so impressed by their findings that they preach and practice safety. Smith, Edward R. Dye, who is head of the industrial division, and others already have equipped their own automobiles with safety devices, including a specially designed shock-absorbing pad for steering wheels.

Dye can spot enough danger areas in your auto to make some of its comforts seem a lot less desirable.

"That knob there, supporting the sun visor," he points out, "could fracture your skull. The ignition key sticking out of your dash board — it could shatter your kneecap if you struck it right. The steering column could pierce your body like a spear."

The laboratory's immediate solution to the danger areas of your "over-sized container" is the safety belt, preferably but not necessarily with shoulder harness.

The value of seat belts, even when worn with as much as three or four inches slack around the hips, has been proven in lab tests.

Laboratory technicians used two balsa-block and metal dummies with body movements similar to humans. An adult dummy was dubbed "Thick Man" and one corresponding to a 6-year-old child was named "Half-Pint."

Smith, who supervised the tests, placed the dummies in an auto mounted on a 200-foot runway and brought to jolting, crashlike stops from speeds of 16 to 20 miles an hour. A high-speed camera on the left door panel recorded what happened to the passengers.

Here are some of the things that happened to the "Thick Man" and the "Half-Pint" in a real life possible you and your child.

In one test, "Half-Pint" was thrown from the left rear seat, struck the back of the front seat, WARNS SOVIET—James W. Wadsworth, U. S. delegate to the UN, told Russia the U. S. would sign no disarmament treaty that wasn't cheat proof. Addressing the UN political committee he said both sides would have to disarm in plain sight of the other.

hit his head on the steering wheel and glanced off to strike the windshield — all in less than one second.

From the right rear seat, "Half-Pint" turned a complete somersault and crashed against the windshield.

In another test, "Half-Pint" was hurled from the rear seat through the windshield to the hood of the car.

Seat belts, it was found, not only prevented the adult dummy from being violently thrown about, but reduced the force with which its head struck the dashboard or windshield by restraining more than half the weight of the body.

What does it all add up to? Safety engineers say that until you demand as much safety as style in your automobile — until you convince manufacturers that you'll buy autos with such possible innovations as pull-out panels, crash bars and seats designed for greater safety — your best bet against death or injury is the simple safety belt fixed to the frame of your car.

That's a fact — scientifically tested and proven.

Girl Scout Notes

The Senior Girl Scout Troop from Jacksonville high school will have charge of the Girl Scout Radio Program Saturday morning at 9:45 on Station WLDS. Troop 64 from South Jacksonville will help with the program. The girls will sing Christmas carols and Girl Scout songs.

A tip for you Christmas shopping mothers. Your Girl Scout would love to receive something to use in her Girl Scout work. There are good looking skirts and sweaters, new socks and other accessories, pretty jewelry, books and records. All sorts of equipment for outdoor fun—even a special umbrella! And of course the complete Girl Scout uniform (only a bona fide Girl Scout can wear that).

Troop 64 leader, Mrs. Charles Crocker, assistant leader, Mrs. J. P. Stine, held a Court of Awards Thursday, December 2, to which the mothers were invited. Two new girls, Carolyn Williamson and Sherri Wyatt, were invested and received their Scout pins. The following girls received their 2nd class badges and their Troop pins: Sue Ann Barber, Carolyn Barne, Nancy Boye, Pamela Cole, Charlet Crocker, Carolyn Evans, Lois Gardner, Luwana Herrin, Brenda Hildebrand, Janice Kuster, and Sarah Stine. The girls had a Flag Ceremony, sang songs, and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Fred J. Rhodes, Community Advisor from the Regional Office in Chicago, met with members of the Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council on December 2 at the Scout office.

Mrs. Lloyd Graunke, Executive Director, and Mrs. Bart Johnson, Field Director, met with the professional staff of the Alton-Wood River, and Quincy Councils at a meeting and luncheon at the Dunlap Hotel on Tuesday, November 30.

Troop 40 at Carrollton, under the leadership of Mrs. Francis Mehl, is planning a Christmas Theatre Party on December 18. They earned the money for this and other projects from a bake sale Saturday, Dec. 4.

Britain Finds It Has Full-Scale 'Color Problem'

Sudden Influx of West Indians, Seeking Streets of Gold, Erupts Racial Issue

By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Special Correspondent
LONDON—(NEA)—Britain, long proud of the fact that it has no "color problem" at home, has suddenly found one sitting on its front doorstep, and it's a honey.

Armed with British passports, but without a cent in their jeans, West Indians are pouring into Britain by the thousands in a migration pattern identical with the Puerto Rican "invasion" of New York. London now has its "Little Harlem," as have Birmingham, Liverpool, Bristol and Newcastle, and the racial tension is steadily mounting in these slum areas.

Recently, it erupted with dramatic violence in a series of riots in Camden Town, London.

The lace curtains of Camden Town are tattered and gray from coal smoke, but from behind them white residents have been peering with increasing hostility at the West Indian newcomers moving into the neighborhood.

It took just one drunken Jamaican involved in a pub brawl with a white man to touch off the racial powder keg. A mob set fire to the Jamaican's house, smashed the windows of other colored neighbors, overturned cars in the street.

At the height of the rioting, as many as 400 white and West Indians, some armed with razors and knives, were involved. Police cordoned off one street and patrolled it in squad cars for several days after the disorders.

Among the cars wrecked was one belonging to an American Negro soldier, who had been visiting in Camden Town.

Londoners read about the riots with dismay. Long accustomed to pointing the accusing finger at racial intolerance in America, their attitude has been "It Can't Happen Here." But it is happening.

In Paddington, north London, "Keep Britain White" leaflets are slipped under doors.

In Birmingham to prove that a definite "color bar" exists, a journalist blacked his face, inserted rubber tubes up his nose to give it a negroid appearance and, in turn, was refused a drink, cigarettes, admission to a dance hall.

The sudden influx of West Indians has both police and Members of Parliament worried. Not long ago Jamaica supported a population of a million largely through sugar, tobacco and banana exports to Britain.

Today its population is nearly half again as large, and Britain is buying its sugar and cigars elsewhere.

Result: mass unemployment and what Jamaicans call "the $264 question"—$264 representing the price of a one-way boat ticket to Britain, where the streets are supposed to be paved with gold.

What started as a trickle following the war has now swollen to a flood, with West Indian arrivals expected to top 10,000 in 1954, as compared to 3600 in 1953. Another 100,000 are said to be waiting on the docks of Kingston, Jamaica, held up by the $264 question.

There are no restrictions on West Indian immigration. West Indians, being British subjects, are free to come and go as they please.

But for some "the land of hope and glory" turns out to be a heart-break. It's not that they can't find work in full-employment Britain (99 per cent are placed within ten days) but often the jobs are of the most menial, unskilled variety.

And then there's the "color bar." Often it's easier to find a job than a room, and British landlords who accept colored tenants have been known to double the rent.

London's "Little Harlem" is located in Brixton. Here one finds brown-skinned men wearing the wide-brimmed straw hats of the tropics, with "God Save the Queen" painted on their neckties.

Women, their heads bound in bright kerchiefs, stroll by with the luxuriant, easy gait of the Caribbean.

VIP — Prime Minister Johannes Hoffman, of the Saar, didn't take part in the Paris conference on West German rearmament. But he'll be instrumental in helping carry out French-German agreement on the future of the Saar. The coal and iron region was a vital part of the agreement to arm the Bonn Republic.

Carrollton Has Visit From Santa

CARROLLTON — Santa Claus greeted the children of Carrollton for the first time this year Wednesday evening as he arrived in town on a gaily decorated float and accompanied by a group of clowns who generously distributed candy to the children of the town.

Santa will not reappear here until Friday afternoon, Dec. 24, when treats will again be distributed to the children.

The Jaycees had prepared the city in advance for the arrival of Santa with large striped candy canes attached to many of the street lamps as well as unusual globes for many of the street lamps around the square. The cedar trees in the Court House lawn have been decked with Christmas lights and Santa Claus' house, located at the north entrance to the Court House, was also lighted.

Attorney W. G. Vogt served as master of ceremonies at the arrival of Santa Wednesday evening but the musical program planned with the Children's Choir directed by Earl Sherwood was not presented owing to the coldness of the night.

The Jaycees are continuing their plans for the annual Christmas Festival to be Friday, Dec. 24, at which time numerous prizes will be given to persons holding the lucky numbers at the drawing which will be held. Merchants who are co-operating with the Festival are presenting tickets for the drawing to each purchaser of $1 in merchandise and these tickets are to be placed in Santa Claus house until time for the drawing.

Claims Africa's Wild Animals Will Be Extinct In 50 Years

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—An idea, but they, too, will eventually be wiped out by the mushrooming human population.

"In 50 years, Africa's present 200 million natives and a few million whites will have doubled in number."

"There just won't be any space left for the great animals that once roamed jungle and veldt."

Dr. Grzimek, 45, who has rebuilt Frankfurt's war-damaged zoo to one of the best in Europe, came back recently from a six-month trek in Africa.

He says he was particularly impressed with the Congo wildlife preserves, established by the Belgian government, which even scientists must get special permission to enter.

"These safeguard areas will delay extermination, but in the long run it is inevitable," he told an interviewer. "Mankind is definitely pushing such traditional African denizens as the lion, elephant and gorilla into oblivion."

Dr. Grzimek says that people, in trying to domesticate wild animals, "usually make the great mistake of imagining they will react like humans."

"Wild animals—in their own environment—almost never attack a man. It is well known among zoo keepers that a lion brought up by a human family is much more dangerous than one captured in Africa. The lion who grew up among humans regards them as his natural companions and will turn on them with the same ferocity he would display toward another lion."

"Don't expect a hand-fed lion cub to be grateful to you in later life. Gratitude is even rare among men."

Another mistake, says Dr. Grzimek, is to feel sorry for zoo animals, because of their captivity.

"That's false sympathy, particularly when applied to lions. The lion is a lazy animal who likes nothing more than his comfort, which he has plenty of in a zoo."

According to Dr. Grzimek, the United States now has more than half the world's 400 zoos, supplanting Germany as "the pacemaker in this international business."

Chorus And Band Of Franklin To Present Vespers

FRANKLIN—The vocal and band students of Franklin high school will present the annual Christmas vesper program, Sunday, Dec. 19 at 7:30 p. m. in the high school gym.

The program will be quite different than any presented in recent years, featuring both traditional and popular Christmas music.

Highlighting the program will be the presentation of a Christmas pageant by the high school mixed chorus, directed by Miss Mary Devlin. The senior band, directed by Miss Marjorie Tubbs, will play several Christmas selections, and will feature the baton twirling choir and a seven-piece saxophone choir.

There are only about 60 California condors left.

Greenfield Eastern Star Holds Installation

GREENFIELD—Greenfield Eastern Star, Chapter 424, held their annual installation Monday night. Past Worthy Matrons Mae Griswold, Lois Linn and Mildred Bauer served as installing officer, chaplain and marshal. Those installed were: worthy matron, Mildred Becker; worthy patron, Kenneth Parks; associate matron, Olive Hamilton; associate patron, Willard Hamilton; conductress, Virginia Knisley; associate conductress, Elta Strang; marshal, Dorothy Converse; chaplain, Wanda Meng; Adah, Janet Morrow; Ruth, Mabel Walkington; Esther, Thelma Parks; Martha, Helen Wilton; Electa, Eileen Cole; warder, Hilda Haven; flag bearer, Edna Hedegcock; sentinel, Milburn Hedegcock; soloist, Evelyn Roth; organist, Florence Price.

Two nieces, Linda Barnett and Sandra Camp, presented their aunt, Mrs. Becker, with gifts and flowers from her family and friends of this city and Alton.

A large number of out of town guests attended the installation.

Mrs. L. E. Middleton, Mrs. Jessie White, Mrs. Grant Melvin, Mrs. Lena Stickel and Mrs. Byron Hill were members of the refreshment committee. Local chapter members of the "Twinkle Club" which includes past worthy matrons and line officers, will join a group of neighboring chapters and attend an all-day meeting at Carlinville Friday, Dec. 10.

Grand Conductress Elfrieda Barr of Granite City will conduct a school of instruction here Thursday, Dec. 16.

Church Honors Pastor

The Greenfield Baptist church honored Rev. and Mrs. P. M. Wright at a reception Thursday night in the social rooms of the church. Rev. Wright has assumed the pastorate of the church, and they have moved here to the recently remodeled parsonage from Jacksonville.

Miss Ann Bauer and her guest, Miss Barbara Hesse of New York City, have returned to their studies at the University of Wisconsin at Madison after visiting here with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover L. Bauer.

PROPOSALS—Rep. Carl Vinson (D., Ga.), chairman-designate of the House Armed Forces Committee, wants a stronger defense for the U. S. He plans to sponsor legislation to step up ship building, extend the draft law two years, expand the Air Force, and raise military pay.

Inner Tube Becomes Outmoded By Use Of New Tubeless Tire

By JOSEPH KUEBLER
Industrial Editor,
The Akron Beacon Journal
AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Tire industry executives estimate that in any where from three to five years, the inner tube will be a thing of the past.

Virtually all 1955 passenger automobiles will be equipped with tubeless tires.

Small trucks and airplanes are being equipped with the tubeless variety now, in considerable numbers.

In the case of the big trucks, a technical problem of developing an airtight rim has been delaying matters, but one manufacturer says it has that problem licked. Among passenger cars, the only present exception to the tubeless trend is the occasional car with wire wheels. It is not very economical to make that type of wheel airtight.

The "big four" producers of the industry are swinging heavily to tubeless production. They are Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., B. F. Goodrich Co., Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. and U. S. Rubber Co.

Goodrich has revealed that 75 per cent of its passenger tire capacity now is assigned to production of the tubeless tire. Not long ago Goodyear estimated its output was 50 per cent tubeless and that the percentage would climb rapidly.

Tire makers are going after the replacement market too. Tubeless tires can be used on any passenger car, old or new, that has 15 inch rims in good condition. Even if there are dents in the rims, it still is possible to use the new tires if the dents can be smoothed out enough to make an airtight connection.

To the motorist buying a tire, the tubeless variety looks pretty much like the conventional kind. But it is a great deal different in construction.

All tires are made in plies—four, or six, or more. That means there are four or more layers of fabric to form the body of the casing. The big job of the tire engineers was to make the plies airtight.

The amount of air pressure in a tubeless tire need not be any higher than for a conventional tire. In their tests of the tubeless type, engineers have dropped the air pressure to as low as five pounds and still have not been able to rip the tires off the rim.

Repairing a tubeless tire presents no great problem. U. S. rubber has put on the market a repair gun which will enable ordinary punctures to be repaired without removing the tubeless tire from the wheel. The gun is about the size of a tube of toothpaste and contains a semi-liquid rubber sealant.

What about the price? Tubeless tires are more difficult to build. There are more operations. They take a bit longer to cure or vulcanize, so production is somewhat slower.

However, the tires coming out on the new automobiles are the same price as the conventional combination of tire and tube.

While here Mrs. Lumpkin attended a dinner party Saturday evening given by Mrs. Titus honoring Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Sharon of this city. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Fishback of Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fishback, Mrs. P. J. Achenbach, Mrs. Elona Seagraves and Mrs. Edith Allen.

Japanese Taxi Ride Is Both Terrifying And Hazardous

By JAMES CARY

TOKYO (AP)—You haven't lived until you've had a Japanese taxi ride.

And when you do you're not sure you'll survive the trip.

A whirlwind journey up one of Tokyo's crowded streets, with old men, children and bicycle riders, scampering out of your path like quacking chickens, is enough to unhinge any tourist.

Many have sat in quivering open-mouthed terror as they whirled through the streaming, horn-toting mass of Japanese traffic and wondered how motor cars ever get anywhere without a smash-up.

Some of them don't. And thereby hangs a rapidly mounting problem for the young Japanese democracy in its new, heavily-motorized age.

Accidents have been mounting at an alarming rate in major cities of the island empire, and traffic deaths are at an all time peak.

In Tokyo, metropolitan police records show only 372 were killed in 1950 automobile mishaps. By 1953 the total had climbed to 613, and this year statistics for the first six months show injuries and deaths are up 41 per cent over the same period of 1953.

A top Tokyo police spokesman lays most of the blame on taxi drivers and their free wheeling methods of dashing across streets, up alleys and down tiny lanes.

A complete U turn in the middle of a busy thoroughfare is common. Taxicabs frequently ram their way across several lanes of traffic to get to a customer at the curb. They race from traffic light to traffic light and whip in front of each other in squealing, horn-blasting stops.

And whether there is anyone in front of them or not they keep "beep-beeping" on their horns, just in case someone might dare venture into their path.

Such tactics, police said, involved taxis in 30 per cent of Tokyo's 14,450 accidents last year.

There are several theories on what causes the cab drivers to act that way.

Some claim they are former Kamikaze pilots who learned to land their planes in serpentine fashion on bomb-pocked airstrips during World War II.

Others claim their recklessness is all part of the new Japanese feeling of freedom.

Lillian Gish Advocates Secretary Of Fine Arts

NEW YORK (AP)—Actress Lillian Gish is the most surprised crusader of the year.

Simply put, blonde Miss Gish—who along with sister Dorothy made stage and silent movie history when Dad was a sprout—feels the nation needs one more man in Ike's Cabinet, a secretary of fine arts to build up cultural well-being.

She has been thinking it over for 15 years, and never told anyone. Finally she wrote her ideas down for a book that's coming out shortly ("Custodians of the Future") then happened to mention it on a television show the other night.

Miss Gish was wide-eyed at the result.

"People have been calling up and writing me ever since. I tell them 'Don't come to me. I'm just a woman. Nobody's behind me. Write your congressman and senator.'"

Miss Gish, who looks as fragile as she did in "Birth of a Nation," but who stubbornly sticks to her argument, says a department of fine arts would include such things as architecture and textiles as well as stage, films, literature, painting and sculpture.

"Practically everybody in the country has someone they can run to in Washington to take care of them when things go wrong—except people in the arts," says Lillian, clasping her fingers.

"Culturally we are weak. We are not spiritually wanting, but we need to put the props under culture. We shouldn't have to leave it to other countries to recognize our great artists with prizes.

"We think too much about material things. Some things are beyond money. Money is bread. But the Good Book says we shouldn't live by bread alone."

Basically, the Gish idea is a federal agency to supervise, encourage and sponsor all artistic endeavor, set up national theaters such as France and Sweden have, and recognize superior talents with some form of awards.

"Maybe you and I won't live to see it," said 56-year-old Lillian. "But we'll have it one of these days."

Currently Miss Gish also is excited about completing "The Night of the Hunter," her first film in eight years. She's busy too looking over scripts for another Broadway run after scoring a personal hit last year in "Trip to Bountiful," and for television.

LOOKING INTO THINGS—Judges at the International Livestock Show, in Chicago, examine the corn submitted by the Karsh brothers, of Peconica, Ill. They were disqualified because their entry was improperly prepared... the kernels had been glued in. Checking are, left to right: Floyd Hiner, Lewis Saboe and Carl Borgeson.

Madness In The Spring

XXXVI
WHEN Horace Crain came to the end of his speech, Kirby stepped forward again. "And now," he cried enthusiastically, "we'll turn back the clock and give you a day in Dead Man's Gulch." There was a pistol shot and the parade started to move. The covered wagon pursued by Indians, a mimic stagecoach robbery punctuated by blank cartridges; cowboys doing fancy riding; somewhere toward the end of the procession "Hannah rode alone followed to her immense surprise by whistles. When the parade had streamed past the windows, Daggett saw Rupert holding forth to a group of dazzled women and an old-timer selling miniature covered wagons that were to be used as cigar boxes.

The passing crowd blurred, became dreamlike. "The time of my life," Daggett thought contentedly.

At some point he dozed and realized it when he opened his eyes to see the lengthening shadows and Greg once more at his side. Quite a little group had collected, among them the Crains and Rupert and Kirby. Hannah stood by herself in the background. Daggett experienced an old man's embarrassment at being caught napping.

Crain was beaming. "Wonderful place you've got here, Mr. Daggett. I'd have come just to meet you. Want to know what you've got that brought out that young man of mine. I've already had some telegrams." He turned to his wife "Millicent, my dear, my public relations man suggests you stroll down the road with him and meet some of these good people."

His wife gave him her slow, lovely smile. "If you want me to appear at the dance tonight," she said gently, "a touch of steel in her voice. "I must have some rest having left the old man. Her attention was on the crowded floor, not on him.

At last Greg said sulkily, "I'll be pulling out tomorrow." "Uncle Wade told me," Greg was outraged. "Don't you care?" Hannah made no reply he said crossly. "I wish you'd take off that confounded hat. I can't see your face." They were near the door and he led her outside. "It's not in here. Let's walk."

"I don't want to," Hannah objected. "I'd ruin this trailing skirt."

GREG was taken aback. To the best of his knowledge, she had invariably agreed to any suggestion that was made to her. He picked her up, lifted her on to the seat of the covered wagon and scrambled up beside her. Lights from the ballroom made her bare shoulders look like thick cream, but her face was still in shadow.

"What are you figuring on doing?" he asked as the silence lengthened.

"I want to get married," Hannah said simply.

"Well, for heaven's sake!" Greg loosened his collar. "Why couldn't you say so? Do you want one of those lousy public weddings so you can furnish your house by blackmailing other people into giving you presents, or just a private one?"

She pulled off the big hat and dropped it on her lap. He could see her face now, the eyes huge and shadowy, Rossetti eyes, the mouth full and warm and sweet.

"If that is supposed to be a proposal," she said breathlessly, but with a hint of steel in her voice, "you'll have to do better than that."

Down the dusty road a man staggered, talking loudly to himself. "A woman always has her revenge ready. Moliere! Kirby declared to the night. "Every woman should marry and no man. Disraeli. A woman is necessarily an evil. Menander."

Greg laughed. "Benedict the married man. Shakespeare!" He took her in his arms.

Remember when the minstrel show came to town and paraded down Main Street to advertise the evening performance? We faintly "rolled in the aisles" as the end men cracked the funniest jokes we had ever heard—aided by the faultlessly attired interactor. We miss the old-time minstrel show. Remember?

1955 CHRYSLER WINDSOR DELUXE NASSAU

CHRYSLER'S 100-MILLION-DOLLAR LOOK! ... overnight it's a famous new fashion!

"TAILORED STEEL" is the fashion experts' term for Chrysler's exciting new styling! Sweeping design change for 1955 features noticeably lower, longer lines and... unmistakably Chrysler... the new sleek-back Super-Scenic Windshield that "wraps around" both top and bottom for greater (and safer) vision! New V-8 engines now power all Chryslers; up to 250 hp in the New Yorker Deluxe, and 188 hp in the Windsor Deluxe series. Other Chrysler exclusives include the most automatic of all transmissions, Full-time Power Steering, and double-width pedal Power Brakes. Your Chrysler-Plymouth dealer invites you to see and drive America's newest and most smartly different car!

WIDELY HAILED is Chrysler's new Power-Flite Range Selector... on the dash! Permitting more instant control of gear-range selection, it heightens the pleasing "cockpit" effect of Chrysler's new front compartment styling.

TOTALLY NEW throughout, the 1955 Chrysler is easy to identify from any angle. New-styled "tumblehome" (or slope-in of the sides) emphasizes Chrysler's road-hugging look. Unmistakably Chrysler is the classic simplicity of rear deck... longer and broader. Dominant Twin-Tower tail lights set a new trend in rear-end design.

IT'S A POSSIBILITY—Dr. Walter R. Dornberger, missile expert, told the Chicago chapter of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences that in 10 or 15 years rocket-propelled airliners traveling 13,000 mph are a possibility. This is an artist's conception of what such a rocket airliner might look like. Dornberger is a former general in the German army.

These ladies are well known evangelists, having ministered in a number of states. They will also sing with guitar accompaniment, each evening.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Party trick: add a little curry powder to that canned cream of chicken soup and accompany it with salted almonds instead of the usual crackers. Elegant!
